Council Listens to Water Plea In Silence

C. OF C. HEAD URGES HALT IN 'PATCHWORK'

VanDerau Cites Need for City-Wide Improvements in Water Distribution System.

SUBMITS BOND ISSUE PLAN

Solons Offer No Comment on Plan to Eliminate Ills in Present Set-Up.—

A 40-minute lecture on the need for comprehensive improvements in the city's water distribution system was received in silence last night by city council.

The speaker was Clarence L. VanDerau, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who called for the elimination of "the patchwork" in the system and submitted the chamber's recommendation for a $600,000 bond issue to finance city-wide improvements.

Shultz to 'Explain.'

The only comment made at the close of VanDerau's discourse came from Second Ward Councilman Charles N. Shultz, chairman of council's water committee.

"I'll see you tomorrow and explain a number of things you should know," Shultz said when Council President Karl P. Troll called for a reply.

Shultz said today he planned to discuss with VanDerau the exact amount of money needed to complete the program in order to draft "some definite" proposals to lay before the voters.

Offers Recommendations.

VanDerau laid before council recommendations drafted by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday night.

The proposal, he explained, was to seek one of two bond issues at the August primaries, either $800,000 to make the improvements and retire the present bonded indebtedness of the water department, or a $600,000 issue to take care of the present needs.

"The Chamber of Commerce can do only one thing," VanDerau said, "and that is to formulate

Scenes As A Nation Faded From World Scene

THREE MEN WHO LOST—When this picture was taken, these three men were the heads of three sections of what was then Czechoslovakia. Now, M. Augustin Volosin, left, who was premier of Ruthenia, has fled Hungary announced annexation of his country. Karl Sidor, center, who was Slovakian Hlinka guard leader, was reported leaving Slovakia on a vacation that may be permanent. President Emil Hacha of Czechoslovakia, capitulated to Adolf Hitler and turned all of his country over to Germany.

A SINISTER HINT—Just before Slovakia broke Czech ties, these shop windows in Bratislava, Slovakian capital, were broken in an anti-Jewish demonstration. Now with Slovakia a part of Germany, the fate of Jews is expected to be the same as their fate in Germany itself—elimination from all economic life.

DEATH CLAIMS RUPERT F. COX

Head of Insurance Firm Built Coliseum, Helped Develop North Lake Park Site.

(Picture on Page 8)

Rupert F. Cox, 59, head of the insurance company which bears his name, twice city treasurer, and whose foresightedness contributed largely in the early years to making a recreational park of North Lake park, died at his home, 388 West Third street, last evening after a brief illness.

Mr. Cox, who was widely known in outdoor amusement circles of the state, had been in failing health for some time but had conducted business affairs up until 10 days ago.

He was born in Mansfield, April 24, 1879, the son of George and Emily Newberry Cox, and was a graduate of Mansfield High school. For 23 years he was assistant cashier of the Richland Trust company, and served as city treasurer for two terms, from 1922 to 1926.

In 1923 he became a partner in the DeYarmon and Cox Insurance agency and in 1930 purchased the business, which he has operated since.

Mr. Cox became interested in the possibilities of open air dancing and recreations in 1912 and acquired a large tract of land in what is now North Lake park. Here he built the first open air dance pavilion in this section of the state—the White Maple pavilion. He also built the first roller-coaster in this territory, the old "Figure Eight" of Casino park. The pavilion burned several years ago.

In 1920, on the site that had been occupied by the roller-coast-

SWALLOWED UP—On maps printed hereafter, there will be no Czechoslovakia, no Slovakia, no Ruthenia (Carpatho-Ukraine). They vanished before the power of Germany and Hungary. Taking Bohemia and Moravia by a bloodless invasion, Adolf Hitler today also annexed Slovakia, which had set itself up as an independent country only Tuesday. Hungary today announced the annexation of Ruthenia (though fighting was still going on) which gave it a common border with Poland, something both countries have long desired.

Czechs, Slovaks To Keep Up Fight, Benes Predicts

CHICAGO — (AP) — Czech and Slovak peoples will fight unceasingly for the restoration of a free homeland, says former president Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia.

Breaking his silence on European developments, Dr. Benes issued a statement last night branding the newest dismemberment of his country as a "shocking international crime."

He called upon Czechs and Slovaks to "prepare for the freedom of our nation in a free Europe."

A tense and tearful crowd of several thousand Czechs and Slovaks heard the statement. For the most part the audience sat in funeral silence, seemingly crushed in spirit.

Dr. Jan Masaryk, former Czechoslovakian ambassador to Great Britain and son of the founder of the republic, advised the audience to prize their American citizenship, to "gather around the American flag."

DELAYED AGAIN

Tappan III With Grippe, Driving Case Hearing Postponed.

The case of Russell L. Tappan, 33, of 219 South Mulberry street, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol which was to have been heard in municipal court today was continued for the second time today—this time indefinitely.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch said that hearing on the case had been postponed after a physician's report said Tappan was confined at his home with the "grippe" and could not leave the house. He said no date had been set for the hearing.

Tappan was arrested at 12:30 a. m. Sunday following an automobile collision at Lexington and Mendota avenues.

Two weeks ago, after a series of postponements, a case against Tappan involving a charge of leaving the scene of an accident was dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—L. P. Madden, 45, representative of a Pittsburgh valve manufacturing firm, died early today in a plunge from the seventh floor of the Daniel Boone hotel here to a ledge on the third floor.

Authorities believed he fell as he tried to raise a window after a cigaret had set fire to his mattress.

WASHINGTON C. H. — (AP) —Roy T. McClure, 55, of Columbus, former bank president here, was found shot to death early today lying across the grave of his parents in the Bloomingburg cemetery five miles northeast of here.

Coroner N. M. Reiff said he would return a suicide verdict. A note tucked in the sleeve of McClure's coat advised an undertaker how to dispose of the body. A gun was found beside McClure.

BILL HITS SNAG

Final Approval of U. S. Army Expansion Due Next Week.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Senator Austin (R-Vt) said today final congresional approval of the $358,000,000 army expansion bill probably would be delayed until next week.

Congress moved ahead, to make funds available for some parts of the program.

A house appropriations subcommittee approved yesterday President Roosevelt's request for $124,000,000 to supply "critical items" of army equipment, strengthen seacoast defenses, and train 20,000 civilian airplane pilots.

Flood Tax Strike Puts Town 'On Spot,' Mayor Maps Savings

(By Associated Press)

NEWCOMERSTOWN—The city treasury as flat as pancakes, Mayor Charles E. Mugford today calmly announced new economies in his "dollars and sense" plan or meeting tax strike complications.

"I'm asking the council to turn off the street lights to save money," asserted the militant official, "and then I'm going to do some more cutting. Every nickel I can save I'm going to save and that even includes stamp money.

Outlined unexpectedly by the mayor at a Chamber of Commerce meeting, the street lights proposal followed refusal of Tuscarawas county officials to advance operating funds to the village in anticipation of tax collections.

This action, Mugford charged, was aimed at breaking up the strike of Newcomerstown property owners against payment of tax bills which include alleged unreasonable assessments by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district for flood control work.

2 OF 97 CASES HEARD BY JURY

Long String of Guilty Pleas Slashes County's Court Costs During 1938.

Only two of the 97 persons who came before Richland county common pleas court last year on criminal charges were tried by a jury, and 81 of the 97 entered guilty pleas. Eleven of the cases were pending at the end of the year.

Figures compiled today by C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk for the Federal Census bureau, placed the county among the leaders in Ohio from the standpoint of low expense in trying criminal cases.

Court attaches estimated that the guilty pleas, which eliminate the necessity of a trial, saved the county hundreds of dollars in jury and witness fees.

The high percentage of guilty pleas was attributed to Judge C. H. Huston's policy of giving defendants an opportunity to win

Herbert Asserts Subversive Groups Attempt to Operate in Churches, Y. M. C. A.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Broad charges that un-American doctrines are taught in state universities and that subversive activities threaten the welfare of Ohioans became a primary concern of the senate rules committee today.

The committee sought to determine whether the allegations, made by spokesmen for the "Ohio Council of Civic, Patriotic and Fraternal organizations," warranted a legislative investigation.

Cites "List of 50."

Arden S. Turner, student organizer of a patriotic group, told the committee "I probably could give you a list of 50 professors teaching un-American doctrines."

Capt. John E. Wright, operator of a "subversive research service which I sell to the public," said he could produce evidence that Ohio State University professors and students visit Communist headquarters in Columbus and promised to name instructors teaching Communistic theories.

Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, former state commander of the American Legion, told the committee that evidence could be producek to show how subversive groups attempted to penetrate schools, churches and the Y. M. C. A., and that there was a strong German bund organization operating in Ohio.

Resolution Action Due.

The committee has before it a resolution, introduced several weeks ago by Senator Robert A. Pollock (R., Stark), asking an investigation.

The resolution was based upon a complaint of the American Legion that some Ohio State students were engaged in subversive activities.

The university trustees launched an investigation but the Legion has declined to submit all its evidence, preferring to save it for a legislative inquiry.

The Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans are among organizations composing the "Ohio Council of Civic, Patriotic and Fraternal organizations," which urged approval of the resolution yesterday.

TRIAL STARTS

Highway Police Testify for State in Death Case.

ASHLAND — State Patrolmen C. B. Tieben and C. W. Cale of the Mansfield station testified today that Charles E. Stoops, 55, of Mifflin, on trial on a manslaughter charge in the traffic death of his father, apparently had been drinking when the fatal accident occurred Dec. 15 on route 30 near Mifflin.

Stoops, driver of the car in which his aged father, William, was killed, went on trial this morning before a jury in common pleas court.

The two patrolmen who investigated the accident said the younger Stoops told them after the crash that he had been drinking in Mansfield and was on his way home when his car left the highway and turned over, fatally injuring his father.

The grand jury also indicted Stoops for operating a car while under the influence of alcohol.

Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson is presiding.

Republic Calls On Fuehrer For His Protection

Hungary Announces It Has Annexed Ruthenia, 20-year-old Country Of Czechoslovakia Fades From Map of Europe.

BULLETIN

PRAGUE—(UP)—Adolf Hitler left Prague by automobile today for an undisclosed destination.

(By Associated Press)

PRAGUE—Adolf Hitler, stretching the arms of his expanding empire 200 miles farther east, today laid down German law for Bohemia-Moravia and agreed to take Slovakia under his protection.

As German rule encompassed those two parts of broken Czechoslovakia, the third, Carpatho-Ukraine, disappeared from the European map by annexation to Hungary.

In a decree issued from Hradcany castle of Prague, the German chancellor charted the future of the ancient lands of Bohemia and Moravia as that of "an autonomous protectorate" within Greater Germany.

Hitler laid down the new fundamental law for the country of 7,000,000 Czechs a day after he had sped into the capital of the crushed Czechoslovakia federation behind the wheels of his motorized army.

German protection of Slovakia answered the appeal of Dr. Joseph Tiso, who declared the independence from Prague of the little country Tuesday under Hitler's guidance and promise of support.

Thus 14,600 square miles and 2,450,000 more of the population of central Europe became German-ruled.

The fuehrer acted barely two hours after his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, had broadcast the decree for future rule over Bohemia and Moravia.

Fight In Trenches.

Bitter trench fighting between Hungarians moving across Carpatho-Ukraine and Ukrainians, meanwhile, left an estimated 100 dead and wounded in the eastern end of the former Czechoslovak state.

Augustin Volosin, former Carpatho-Ukraine premier, who sent his appeals too late to Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy, the only men who might have stayed Hungary's hand, fled to Rumania.

A day before Hitler agreed to make Slovakia's people subjects of a German protectorate, his gray-clad legions had entered their country just as they did Bohemia-Moravia.

It was assumed that now they would carry out the same duties in the Slovak protectorate which German forces have undertaken in Bohemia-Moravia.

Receives Ex-President.

Almost at the same time as the announcement that Slovakia would be a German protectorate, Hitler received Emil Hacha, former president of dissolved Czechoslovakia, at Hradcany castle.

Although Hitler's decree made all the quarter million Germans within the protectorate German citizens, this was subject to the provisions of the Nuernberg racial (anti-Jewish) and other German laws. In other words, German Jews cannot be citizens.

German troops today had completed occupation of the two provinces of the collapsed republic, an area populated by 7,000,000 Czechs.

Germanic inhabitants living in the protectorate are to become German citizens, it was proclaimed, and "foreign affairs and especially the protection of citizens abroad are to be taken over by the reich."

The proclamation continued, point by point, to outline the nature of Hitler's protection:

"The reich will grant military

BUDAPEST: Hungarians Cheer Teleky's Annexation Statement

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST—Premier Count Paul Teleky told the wildly cheering Hungarian parliament today that "Carpatho-Ukraine becomes a part of the kingdom of Hungary."

The premier's announcement of annexation came as fierce street fighting was reported from Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine, easternmost section of the smashed Czechoslovak republic, which Hungarian forces were slowly occupying.

(Warsaw dispatches said Hungarian troops had reached the border between Poland and Carpatho-Ukraine at two places.)

At the same time the Hungarian parliament adopted new legislation for sweeping control of Jews.

Jews were barred from many occupations and Jewish participation in professions and business was limited to approximately 6 per cent of the total persons engaged in those fields.

Count Teleky declared Carpatho-Ukraine was "set up as an autonomous region" within Hungary and would "enjoy sweeping rights of self-government."

The government of Carpatho-Ukraine, one of the three autonomous regimes of the shattered Czechoslovak federation, declared its independence Tuesday when Czechoslovakia ceased to be.

By annexation, Hungary achieved a common border with Poland—an aim ardently desired by Hungarian leaders.

Although Germany previously had frowned on such a purpose, there was every indication that Hungary was moving now into Carpatho-Ukraine with Berlin's approval.

BERLIN: Danzig, Memeland, Ukraine Hitler's Next Aims?

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The chance that Adolf Hitler now might strike swiftly to settle other unfinished Nazi business in Europe was sighted today by foreign diplomatic circles.

Amid the reichsfuehrer's triumph in breaking up what was left of the Czechoslovak republic after Munich, these quarters discussed two dominant questions:

1. How soon would Hitler move to return Danzig and Memel to the lap of "Mother Germany"?

2. How quickly would Hitler follow up his regenerated eastern push toward the dream of rich treasures in the Ukraine?

Despite the fact that the fuehrer usually had permitted a lull between successes, there was a chance now that he might reverse the procedure and strike while the iron of an empire-in-the-making was still hot—particularly in the case of Danzig and Memel.

Hitler had spaced out his three latest and greatest successes over slightly more than a year—the annexation of Austria, the absorption of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland and finally sponsorship of a new Slovak state and a protectorate over the Czech part of the former Czechoslovak republic.

Today his armies were in control of Bohemia and Moravia and on guard in Slovakia. Hungarian forces, with apparent German acquiescence, had marched across Carpatho-Ukraine, the remaining fragment of free Czechoslovakia. Early today the Hungarians established a common frontier with Poland.

Men who have studied the ways of the Czechs' new protector have always noted his disregard of conservative advice and how, despite

PLANE SHARES HOLD UP, OTHER ISSUES DECLINE

Wall Street Still Shaky Over European Affairs, Leading Stocks Continue Drop.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—With the exception of aircrafts, which managed to tack on small advances, leading stocks continued to slip in today's market.

Wall Street sentiment apparently was a bit shaky over the Czechoslovak dissolution and growing fears the desired revision in the domestic tax structure might be sidetracked.

Foreign markets were moderately lower, but liquidation slackened. Commodities were mixed. Bonds were irregularly in arrears.

Among heavier stocks were du Pont, Allied Chemical, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester and Chrysler.

Market followers derived a little cheer from the Dun & Bradstreet summary of bank clearings in 22 cities for the week ended yesterday disclosing the aggregate for the 11th consecutive week topped the comparable period a year ago.

Those watching building material shares studied the figures of the Engineering News-Record which indicated construction awards for the week ended today were up 27 per cent from the preceding week, but nine per cent below the like 1938 week.

"Laugh and World's Tonic Is With You"

"Weep and You Weep Alone"—If Self Pity from Constipation's Ills Makes You a Cry-Baby

"Do Something—I Did—I Tried World's Tonic"

Mrs. Margaret Crayer of 827 S. 5th St., Coshocton, Ohio, didn't use all the above words exactly but they express the general idea she was trying to convey as she said:

"I have been a constant sufferer from the evils of constipation for so long that I was becoming a regular cry-baby. I didn't really mean to be giving the impression of self pity so much but I noticed that all my friends and neighbors were avoiding me more and more. I could hardly blame them for no one, not even myself is much interested in listening to self-pity or a cry-baby. Just like the men run when women start talking about 'my operation'

"Constipation brought on so many other things that I was consistently worried about my general health. For example I had no appetite and food would turn sour, often causing gas to add palpitation and even cramps in my stomach. Biliousness and dizzy spells kept me on edge during the day and kidney disorders in addition to terrible pains in my back and limbs kept me awake half the nights. You can imagine the result of all this on my nerves.

"I've been going to try World's Tonic for some time and finally, about two weeks ago, I did. The relieved effect on my constipation was so grand that it [illegible] blessing. And all the other ruin and wreck it was causing are leaving me. Stomach, kidneys and all those pains have been so relieved that my nerves are now normal again. I'm eating better and my friends are showing a responsive cheerfulness to my happy feelings again. I most certainly advise all women who are afflicted as I was that they CAN do something as I did. They should all try World's Tonic."

Skillful blending of roots and herbs with valuable alkalines enables World's Tonic to help prevent premature aging which poisons accumulating from occasional constipation may bring on.

Low Water Pressure Twenty Years Ago

TWENTY YEARS AGO this month, Mansfield people were greatly wrought up by a fire in which the estimated damage was a quarter of a million dollars.

The entire block between North Park and Third streets, on the east side of Main, was threatened with destruction in an early morning fire that gutted the store of the Mansfield Dry Goods company and damaged the adjoining Reed and Berno stores.

WATER PRESSURE WAS INADEQUATE for the lines of hose required to fight the blaze.

That same day Safety Director W. Lee Cotter made a statement for publication. He said:

"At present, right here in the business district, we have but four-inch lines. The firemen had many streams coming from them but the pull was greater than the capacity.

"At the pumping station there is constant fear that the pressure will cause some of these old lines, that have been in use for years, to give way under the additional strain.

"I believe we should set about to provide a big water line that would be used exclusively for fire purposes. . . . Right now the need is for a new and much larger line. . . ."

Great interest was shown in this proposal—for as much as several days—as thousands of Mansfielders viewed the fire ruins and speculated on the dire consequences had the conflagration continued north along Main street, with the possibility of flying embers carrying across to structures on the west side of the street.

Then spring arrived; a circus came to town—one thing or another distracted public attention—and the fire was forgotten—as had been the flood damage of March 1913.

* * * * *

NOW it is 1939—twenty years later. Mansfield has grown to even greater needs for a sufficient water supply and distribution system to provide protection against fire losses in business and residential sections of the city.

Meanwhile city administrations have changed many times, with two- or four-year responsibility resting on politically elected officials and their partisan appointees.

Crediting each city official during the past twenty years with a sincere desire to perform his duties to the utmost of his ability, the results, insofar as Mansfield's water distribution system is concerned, are far from satisfactory.

Some road to actual accomplishment must be found. The recommendation of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce proposing a bond issue to provide funds for increasing the capacity of water lines is commended to thoughtful consideration of all Mansfield citizens.

Will Russia Be Ready for Hitler?

WITH completion of the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, and Adolf Hitler at least temporary master of central Europe, the next logical move of Nazi forces is annexation of the rich Russian Ukraine, toward which an unimpeded path now appears to have been opened.

While Hitler's territorial expansion has thus far been accomplished through show of force, with quiet acquiescence of weaker states and other European powers, the big question now arising is the probable attitude of Russia when the moment arrives that decision must be made as to resistance or submission.

Insofar as actual preparedness for war with Germany is concerned, Russia has, in recent years, maintained a discreet silence but it must be assumed the Nazi threat to communism has been recognized and that steps toward protection of Russian territory have been taken.

Whether forces available to Dictator Stalin will be sufficient to protect the Ukraine against an onslaught by the highly developed Nazi war machine is of course problematical.

Yet, if Hitler, or his equally ambitious and arrogant successors are permitted to continue uncurbed in a program of territorial expansion, the eventual fate of Europe's few remaining independent nations can be quite definitely foreseen.

The position thus far taken by Great Britain and France, as evidenced by the Munich pact and expressions in reference to most recent developments, does not encourage belief that these countries contemplate actual opposition to Hitler's further aggressive plans, whatever they may be.

Alignment of the military strength of like-thinking Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy and militaristic Japan presents a disturbing picture for those who have looked hopefully toward permanent world peace accomplished through disarmament agreements.

Good Schools Prevent Crime.

A GOOD school is the best agency of crime prevention we have, even though it accomplishes its results indirectly and never mentions the words 'crime prevention'." says A. H. MacCormick, New York commissioner of correction.

Certainly! Because a good school, wisely run, interests boys and girls, makes them busy and happy in their work and play, keeps mischief out of their minds and so keeps them out of mischief.

Without wholesome interests they will get into bad habits. When they become interested in constructive work, they form good habits.

This way of putting it may seem unduly simplified. There are, unfortunately, some boys and girls that not much can be done with, but probably fewer than a person might think. Not many human beings have a positive urge toward evil. The evil creeps into their minds mostly when they are not occupied with interesting activities.

"When somebody says something which everyone believes," said Lincoln Steffens, "that's not free speech. When he says something with which everyone disagrees but himself, that is."

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The Army was more than a trifle peeved when Col. Edwin Watson, the President's aide, was promoted to a brigadier general. There would have been even more fussi f it had not been announced at the time that he would move into retirement at once and clear the way for another to be promoted. In retirement he will become a presidential secretary.

The Army—and the Navy, too have always wrinkled a bronzed nose at "White House soldiers." The Navy disliked it when President Wilson made Dr. Grayson a rear admiral, and didn't like it much better when President Roosevelt recently made Dr. McIntire, the White House physician, a rear admiral and surgeon general of the Navy.

The Army thought it was free of "White House" promotions until Colonel Watson was moved up. His career record seemed to be good enough, but harness-hardened Army men felt he hadn't been out with troops enough since the war to qualify him for a generalship ahead of clusters of other fighting men.

The Army's viewpoint was not the President's. With Jimmy Roosevelt in the movies and Secretary McIntyre not too robust, Secretary Steve Early has been swamped. Army men like Colonel Watson as a person and so does almost every one else. He is a sort of White House Grover Whalen, affable and pleasing.

He will get $10,000 a year as secretary, more than two times what he would draw in retirement as a brigadier general. He can be put on active duty whenever the President needs a high ranking military aide. He likely will need one when the King and Queen of England arrive. Watson probably will be secretary one hour and general the next, just as in Gilbert and Sullivan.

Bombs and Debt Limits.

BOMBS:

The Navy has officially conceded that a bomber can sink a cruiser. That doesn't include heavily armed battleships, however. The Navy won't give up THAT ship, not on paper anyway. But as to cruisers, whose armor isn't so thick, Admiral Leahy, chief of operations, said several cruisers were "sunk" by air bombs in the mock war recently fought in the Caribbean. He wouldn't say how big the bomb had to be. The "sinking" depended on a number of theoretical hits obtained by a bomber during a raid.

DEBT:

The legal debt limit set years ago by Congress is $45,000,000,000, but if you are inclined to be exacting you might find that the limit has already been exceeded. Our last glance at a Treasury report showed the record indebtedness was $39,931,000,000. In addition however, the Government has "guaranteed" the securities issued by certain Government corporations, such as RFC and HOLC. These "guaranteed" obligations total $5,370,000,000. That, with the regular debt, stacks up to $45,301,000,000.

But That's 'Not Fair.'

THE Treasury, in defense, says it isn't fair to look at it that way. The Treasury says that the Government corporations have enough assets to pay off all the "guaranteed" debt, as well as about $3,000,000,000 of un-guaranteed debt, and still leave a balance of $4,015,000,000. The assets consist of loans made by HOLC, RFC, Commodity Credit Corporation and the Housing Authority, together with some cash and real estate.

Nevertheless, Morgenthau recently appeared before a Senate Committee to recommend increasing the debt limit to $50,000,000,000. He has a good chance to get his way, but congressional economy advocates arep lanning to pry loose some federal expenditures before they yield. It is a little technical advantage Congress has in the tugging, and hauling with the executive branch.

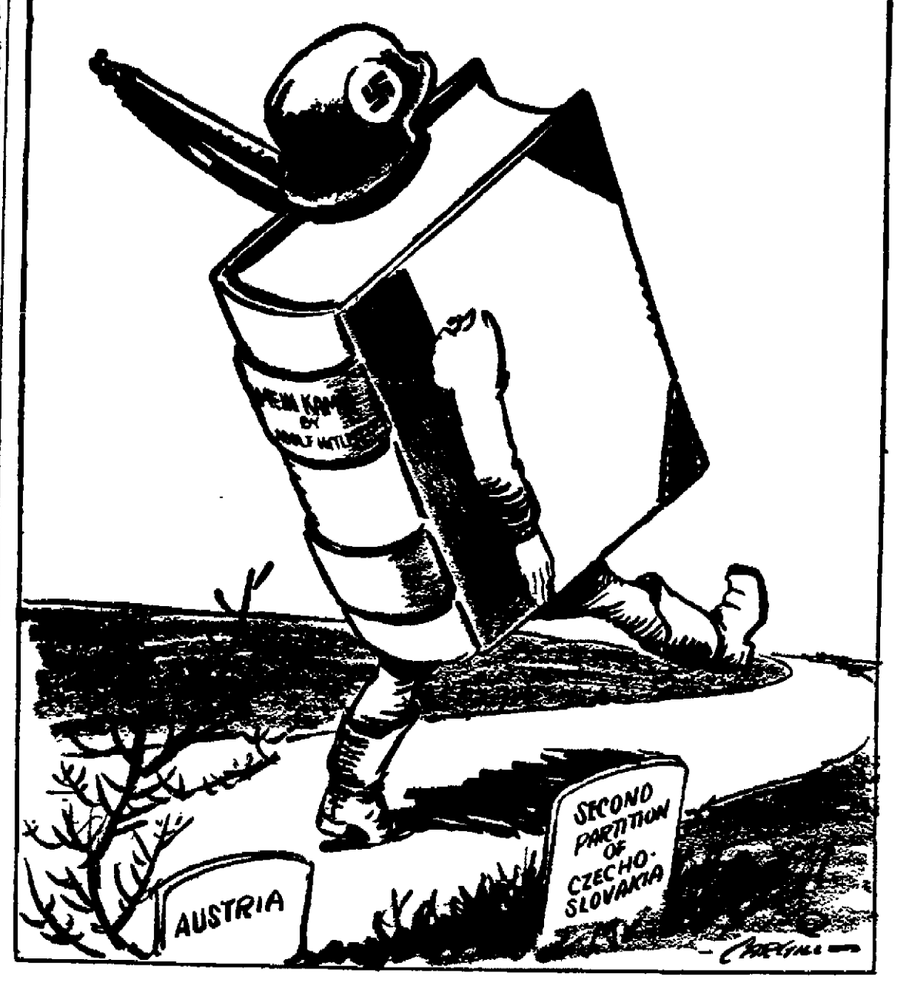
"BOOK OF THE MONTH"



Brazil Is Friendly Toward U. S.

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

THE recenly arranged politico-oconomic hook-up between the United States and Brazil is the most important development in Pan-American history. It might be important on paper only, but this is one of the times when a diplomatic bargain appears to be the real thing.

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha of the southern republic handled his country's end of the preliminary negotiations during his late visit on our side of the equator. Secretary of State Hull nominally handled Uncle Sam's end, but I'd venture a guess that Undersecretary Sumner Welles attended to most of the details. Welles knows our southern neighbors perhaps better than any other North American diplomat does. He's sympathetic toward them, he's on the level, and at the same time he's shrewd. He's spent much time in that part of the world and is thoroughly familiar with its temperamental peculiarities.

The average Latin American is odd from our Nordic standpoint. His word is a lot better than his bond. If he enters into an oral compact he considers his honor at stake and is somewhat more scrupulous than we are at sticking to the spirit as well as to the actual language of the dicker. If the proposition is put in writing, however, he feels that he isn't fully trusted; if he can outmaneuver the other party on technicalities he'll do it.

Latin American governments are just like Latin American individuals.

We're Friendly Anyway.

Of course, this Yankee-Brazilian understanding is typewritten and signed as a matter of international form, but underlying it is a genuine sentiment of mutual good-will.

Just why the Brazilians, traditionally, always have liked us isn't particularly clear, but it's a fact that they have. Possibly, it's because we never have landed marines on their soil, as we have in various other parts of Latin America. An additional count is that the rest of Latin America is predominantly Spanish, and our war with Spain is remembered against us. But Brazil isn't Spanish; it's Portuguese. The Spanish and Portuguese aren't altogether brotherly.

And Brazil is a corking good ally for us to have on the southern new world continent. In square miles it's bigger than we are. In population it's a quarter of our size. In natural resources it's tremendous — and largely complementary to ours. In short, it's 50 per cent of Latin America — or more maybe. Add up the United States, Canada and Brazil —and who cares for the rest of us new worldlings?

International Monies.

Now, to enter into a discussion of international economics would be unprofitable. I don't comprehend 'em anyway. But my personal experience is that, some years ago, I started northward from Buenos Aires, with a bunch of Argentine, Uruguayan, Brazilian and West Indian currency in my pocket. I thought I could change this stuff at any port I touched. I couldn't. I had to pay differentials to money changers at Montevideo, Santos, Rio, Para, Port of Spain and elsewhere. Starting off with $100, you'd have about 90 cents upon disembarkation—not spent at visiting points, but consumed in exchange charges.

Anybody can see how this must dislocate business.

Can this situation be corrected?

Certainly it can't be done if local fixers are left in charge; they'll gobble all the gravy.

But—

Brazil is willing to have North American experts take charge of Brazilian economics. That's all that the Japanese ever asked in China—a Japanese advisership (meaning a Chinese bosser-ship, by the Japanese, of China).

As to Brazil, Germany and Italy screech—naturally.

It suits us, though. I hope we get away with it.

Ohio's Pending Marriage Law.

Members of the Ohio general assembly should note that Indiana has brought its marriage law up to date. The bill just signed by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend is designed to end the Gretna Green marriage business in that state. A health examination is required of applicants for licenses.

Indiana gets into step now with Michigan and Illinois in the enlightened effort to promote eugenics and to decrease divorce by proper legal safeguards.

A bill to improve Ohio's marriage laws is before our legislature. It contains the health examination provision. The Ohio legislators should realize the merit of the principles of this bill which was prepared by a commission after careful study. When this measure comes up for final action, the lawmakers should see that the present five-day wait between application and issuance of licenses is incorporated and with less chance for it being evaded by provate judges.—Toledo Blade.

Difficult to Prevent Heart Disease.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PREVENTION is proverbially 12 times as good as cure, and in any disease we would like to strike at the roots of things. Heart disease, which is increasing rapidly in the United States, presents a difficult problem so far as prevention is concerned. About many forms of heart disease we know the cause, but we have no leads as to how to check them. In other forms, our knowledge of the cause is very vague and unsatisfactory.

In some forms a certain amount of headway can be made. At any rate, the subject is of present and vital interest and an analysis of such facts as we do know leads us to believe that valuable progress is possible in the near future.

While there are named 20 causes of heart disease, we will name only a few of the most important.

Congenital Type.

Congenital heart disease: In these cases the heart does not develop completely before birth and unnatural connections exists in the chambers and divisional walls of the heart. It may be said at once that there is no way to prevent these conditions; they are not due to any disease present in the parents. Fortunately, they are very rare.

Infections, especially rheumatic fever, cause valvular heart disease. The cause of rheumatic fever is still unknown and there are no known specific preventatives. We know however, that the disease develops in wet, cold, variable weather; that family susceptibility plays a role; that the infection occurs most commonly in poor, crowded, insanitary districts where exposure to cold, fatigue, infection and undernourishment of children are common, and that infections of the nose and throat often precede rheumatic fever.

The prevention of rheumatic fever, then, and of the heart disease that follows it, resolves itself into improving the living conditions of the members of susceptible families. As soon as a case of rheumatic fever develops, the patient should be watched carefully for years.

Other Infection.

The other infection which causes heart damage is syphilis, and the public campaign against this may do some good in the prevention of this type of heart disease.

Psychic and nervous causes of heart symptoms are frequent and the program for mental hygiene here is suggested as a preventive measure.

The thyroid gland and its extra activity is a very frequent cause —perhaps third in frequency—of heart disease. With what we know of the control, with or without surgery, of thyroid diseases, much may be done to control this form.

The most frequent cause of heart disease and the most destructive, the one that begins in middle age with the degenerative changes in the arteries, high blood pressure and kidney change, is less susceptible to preventive control. Except to cut down the pressure of life over 50 and bank the fires of activity, there is nothing that we know to do for this scourge of our modern day.

A Farmer's Diary

Maple Syrup Time.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT'S maple sugar time. Early this morning I went to the sugar camp for an hour of keen enjoyment. A clump of pussy-willows along the stream stood full grown and silver coated. A robin darted to a tree ahead, perched upon the spile where the liquid-sweetness dripped, and drank his fill. The morning sun touched the tops of the budded red maples and made them look like berries on their slender stems. Above a pail of sap, I saw a myriad tiny insects float, like a shimmering cloud. Into these winged mites an open-mouthed sparrow flew, gathering a garnish for his breakfast.

"How's it turning out?" I asked my farmer friend, who with his son, was sledding the barrels of sap to a huge tank, where it emptied by force of gravity into the evaporating pans of the sugar house.

"Swell. If this weather keeps up, we'll have more maple sytup than in years. Already we've run off four batches of five or six gallons each. Can't do anything else this time o' year—and anyhow I kindo' like the job. The woods smells good on a freezin' thawin' mornin' like this.

"Last year wasn . worth openin' up for," he went on. "The days got warm too, and the sap was stringy and sour. A fellow has to work too hard to get the stuff to waste his time, but there's nothin' like good syrup, is there?"

"No," I agreed. "And do you make those little scalloped cakes of maple sugar—the kind I used to carry to school in my pocket when I was a lad? It used to melt sometimes, and I didn't get entirely rid of it for days."

He laughed. "I know the kind We used to put ours in an eggshell and that worked better. Then we'd peel the egg, slow like, in time o' school."

"I guess you don't have any trouble to market your syrup."

"No—never get enough so I can keep all I want for my own cellar. I put it up in gallons like you see here, and in quarts, too."

He pointed to a pile of shiny new square topped cans that stood in a corner of the sugar house.

Listen, World!

The Roots Are Going.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ED'S a Relief Executive. He hasn't become mechanical as so many have—or cynical. American people are still real to him—even if they are unemployed and penniless. He believes in them . . . is sure they'll come out on top, somehow, sometime. But sometimes he gets worried.

We were talking about the "Okies" the other day . . . that endless "covered wagon" stream of "dust bowl" refugees which is rolling into California these days . . . moving from place to place without plan or purpose. Sickening. Those ragged, make-shift camps . . . those malnourished men, women and children, scuttling like rats. But the worst thing isn't shown in these pictures. The worst thing isn't the poverty . . . nor the disease . . . nor the filth.

THE WORST THING IS THE CHEERFULNESS OF IT ALL. THE EASY—ACTUALLY EAGER ACCEPTANCE OF IRRESPONSIBILITY. THE OBVIOUS RELIEF OVER THE LAZY, LEISURELY, AIMLESS LIVES.

AMERICAN PRIDE GONE GYPSY! That's what gets Ed... frightens him and many another. Poverty? Maybe we can bring that to an end. Unemployment? Maybe we can put a stop to that. But how can we make people who've gone gypsy . . . known the fun of being gypsy . . . be willing to go back to serious, settled lives?

"Trouble is," says Ed, "we've taken it for granted that Americans were just naturally steady folk . . . that they liked staying put . . . hated driftin' . . . wanted to lead self-respecting, hard-working, independent lives.

"BUT THEY DON'T! THAT IS —MILLIONS OF 'EM DON'T! MOST FOLKS, I STILL BELIEVE, ARE SELF-RESPECTIN' . . . HATE TRAIPSING AROUND, BUT NOW THAT IT'S BEEN MADE EASY FOR 'EM TO LIVE THAT WAY MILLIONS OF 'EM ARE PLUMB RELIEVED TO HAVE NOTHING TO DO AND NOWHERE TO GO . . . JUST DRIFT ALONG, LIVING OFF THE COUNTRY!

"Trouble is," says Ed, "we've lost our traditions. Cut loose from the old notions that usta hold us steady, once. Time was when taking charity branded you for life. You'd give mos' everything you had before you'd accept public help. Maybe 'twas personal pride . . . maybe 'twas public opinion . . . but either way, you'd ruther work like the deuce than admit you couldn't shift for yourself. 'N' now, all that has gone. There ain't no shame, now, in bein' carried by the taxpayers. Fact is, a lotta folks have gotta think it's coming to them!"

"Lost our traditions." . . . And I thought, as Ed spoke, of that tragic "dust bowl" expanse. Hundreds of thousands of square miles of surface soil stripped . . . scattered . . . all because the roots had been taken away.

"The Great American Tragedy —the scientists call it—that stripping of the "buffalo grass," whose roots buttressed the rich, deep soil against the ruthless prairie storms. "Soil Erosion"—that's a terror phrase in the U. S. A. today. Whole States robbed of their good earth . . . BECAUSE THE DEEP, PROTECTIVE ROOTS HAD BEEN TAKEN AWAY.

Soil Erosion . . . Soul Erosion . . . there's little difference between them or their cause. SOILS and SOULS . . . they both need bracing roots. Century old roots of buffalo grass . . . age-old roots of human decency and pride.

STRIP THE SOIL OF ITS ROOTS AND IT GOES GA-GA . . . BREAKS ALL BOUNDARIES . . . WRECKS ALL RULES . . .

STRIP THE SOUL OF ITS ROOTS AND IT GOES GYPSY . . . LAZY . . . IDLE, SHAMELESS, IRRESPONSIBLE—

Think it over.

Relief from poverty . . . or release from Pride . . . which?

And if release—WHERE WILL WE STOP?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Bob Howard is a big, thick chested negro who beats a piano until it rattles. He has a repertoire of songs that leap right up to the risque border, and sometimes over it, and he has plenty of stage authority. When he ambles into view of an audience he commands attention.

The other night, out of the goodness of his heart, Billy Rose sent him over to the Ambassador where a couple of hundred members of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity were observing the annual Founders day dinner. Howard tied the crowd into knots. His peak was a parody on Neville Chamberlain, entitled "The Umbrella Man," and at a late hour today no protests from British diplomatic circles had been received. Howard really sold himself, and his talents are hereby solicited for March 3, 1940.

"GEORGE," anonymously notes a correspondent, "your column on the very busy garment center reminds me of a yarn. As you know, the Thirties on 7th avenue during the noon hour are well-nigh impassable, so choked are they with pedestrians.

"When Grover Whalen was official welcomer for New York, and minor dignitaries came to the city, he'd try to arrange it so that their trains arrived in New York around the noon hour. Whalen and his retinue would then meet the train, deposit the visitor into one of those open limousines and preceded by motorcycle cops with sirens wide open, roar down 7th avenue. And Whalen would bow right and left to the throngs lining the street. And the gapers would cheer. Invariably the dignitary would be left with the impression that the whole city had turned out in his honor."

ENGLISH newspapers have different spellings for various words than those used in this country. Over there the word "shown" is always spelled "shewn." They don't know what "favor" is but they will grant you a "favour." And our "maneuvre" is always "manoeuvre." Correspondents returning from London tell me the adjective "bloody" is the epitome of condemnation. Only Shaw thus far has got away with it.

When you listen to transcribed dance band programs on the air and the announcer lists the orchestra as Raymond Howard, or any other name using those initials, the bet is that you are listening to the recorded music of Richard Himber. Name bands frequently are used for these programs but their real names withheld because the sponsors can't pay enough money for the name personality.

City officials acted today to purchase additional materials to be used by the water department in its 1939 improvement program as the board of control called for bids on cast iron pipe and fittings.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced that bids will be accepted at the office of the board until noon April 4.

Specifications on the materials call for delivery to the city of 2,800 feet of six-inch, and 4,250 feet of eight-inch cast iron water pipe; three and one-half tons of fittings of various sizes, 16 various size gate valves and 16 valve boxes with cover.

SENATE OKAYS LUTZ MEASURE

Bill to Ban Sale of Wild Rabbits Now Goes to Governor.

By a vote of 29 to 0, the state senate today had approved a bill introduced by Representative Ralph C. Lutz of Richland county to prohibit the sale of wild rabbits in Ohio.

Already approved by the house of representatives, the measure will go to Gov. John W. Bricker for signature.

Backers of the bill contended it was foolish to permit hunters and trappers to sell for a pittance the rabbits which the state conservation department imported at a cost of at least 50 cents a head.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

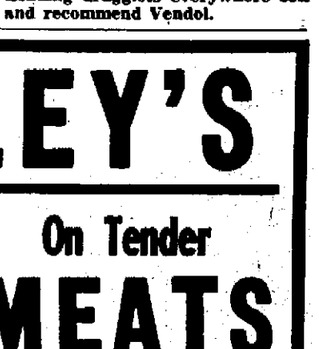
If you have an excess of acid waste in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be over-worked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of poisonous waste.

When functional kidney disorder permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, you won't feel well. This may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. If you have trouble with frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning, there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"It's Like Having New Pair Of Arms," Says Shelby Man

Declares there is no sign of the old aching misery now. Tells of additional relief given by Vendol, the famous Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine.



MR. THOMAS E. BROWN

If you believe you have rheumatism because of the awful aching pains in your arms, elbows, back, legs, ankles or other muscles, the chances are it is all due to constipation and you should visit the Vendol Man now at Central Drug Store and learn what Vendol has done to relieve so many others who suffered this way. See if it doesn't help you just as described here by Mr. Thomas E. Brown, well-known resident living on Route 1, Shelby, Ohio, a Locomotive Machinist by trade, who says:

"I was troubled for several years with pains that would travel from one part of my body to another, which finally settled in my arms and back. I ached so bad that my work was a daily drudgery and I had to put forth all my effort to get it done. Whenever I had to stand for any length of time, my feet would swell, and my ankles and limbs would hurt me something awful.

"My stomach distressed me a lot too. I would feel hungry and eat something, then trouble would begin. My food wouldn't digest properly, but would sour, gas would form, and almost double me up with cramps, and I'd feel so full and bloated I'd get short of breath. All this got my nerves so upset I couldn't sleep well at night, and naturally felt tired and wornout in the morning.

"My wife had taken Vendol and received such wonderful benefits, I decided to try it myself, and it certainly did the job for me. Almost at once, this great medicine relieved my constipated condition, which was really the cause of all my troubles, and I began to feel better in every way. I have now taken three bottles and some of the little Vendol laxative tablets and for the first time in years I'm feeling like I should. Those pains have all disappeared, in fact I actually feel like I have a new pair of arms. I can work all day and never get tired out, eat and sleep good, and have pep and energy to spare. I can join all the others now in recommending Vendol, for it's truly a splendid remedy."

Give Vendol a chance to help you back on the road to better health. See the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and let him courteously explain just how it will benefit you. You'll never be sorry you did. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend Vendol.

COUNCIL SILENT ON WATER PLEA

public opinion by keeping the objective of a greater Mansfield in mind."

Working toward this end, he explained that the chamber already had planned a revival of the "Town Hall" meetings, the first of which is scheduled to be held in the chamber's assembly rooms on March 23.

He said invitations had gone out to every civic organization in the city asking them to have three representatives at the meeting for the purpose of "putting this program across" to the public.

"If there is anything more that the Chamber of Commerce can do to formulate public sentiment for the program, we are at your service," he told council.

Mayor Points to Sewers.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter speaking briefly said that he appreciated the comprehensive picture given by VanDerau and was well aware of the needs in the present water system but that council had gone as far as it could with the limited funds.

He reminded council that it had the sewer problem before it and should not let the water program overshadow the need for the revamping necessary in the sewers.

"Patch Upon Patch."

"Water is one of the things that this city has been temporizing with for several years," VanDerau said.

"You hired engineers to make a survey. You paid the fee and received a complete survey with recommendations, but nothing has been done about it.

"The fact still remains that the city's water system is patch upon patch but a couple catastrophes like we had last week and it will wake up the people of Mansfield," he declared.

He cited what he termed a "shaving of $10,000," from the recently completed Woodland water project at the cost of a "$40,000 fire." "That's not good business," he asserted.

VanDerau referred to the fire that levelled the home of R. E Imhoff on Woodhill road when an inadequate water supply was disclosed in that district.

After reviewing the needed improvements in the distribution system as outlined in the survey made by George B Gascoigne and Associates, Cleveland consulting engineers, VanDerau told council that approximately $600,000 would be needed to follow out the recommendations.

"You can't fool around and patch up the situation," he said. "You've got to plunge."

Says System Undersized.

"The water system was designed for a city half the present size of Mansfield. The same is true about the sewer system that the mayor is fighting for. It was designed for a city of only 20,000 population," he added.

VanDerau declared that if a fire would wipe out "a couple business blocks," or that one of the schools was destroyed, "you'd get damn quick action then—for an aroused public would demand it."

He pointed out that the proposed $600,000 would take care of only present needs and offer adequate fire protection without providing for any future growth of the city.

That amount, he explained, would care for the first three brackets outlined in the survey, part of which already has been completed—the Woodland project. The balance of this project amounting to approximately $32,000 together with the other two brackets of $275,000 each, would complete the job.

These proposals call for the elimination of all four-inch lines in the city (approximately half mains are 4-inch size); elimination of the North Main street pumping station condemned by the state department of health several years ago; construction of a storage tank in Lumbermens Heights and several heavy mains throughout the city.

VanDerau pointed out as he said other officials have on numerous occasions that the lack of fire protection in the mercantile district is costing Mansfielders $50,000 annually in additional insurance premiums.

He cited the high capacity main which was laid last summer on Lexington avenue and which was extended only to Blanche street.

"Fire protection stops there because this line was not brought into the downtown district as was proposed in the engineers' survey," he said.

WHY TAKE CHANCES WITH HEAD COLDS?

If you feel a head cold coming on — take no chances—call a doctor at once. He will probably suggest a light liquid diet and put you to bed. Only Nature can cure a cold and you can help Nature best by getting plenty of rest.

To rest comfortably, you should be able to breathe freely thru your nose. Here's a simple thing that will help ease your breathing and thus promote restful sleep. If your nose is stopped up with mucus, due to a cold, get a jar or tube of Mentholatum at any drug store. Put some in each nostril and snuff it up as far as you can. Mentholatum is a mild, soothing ointment containing menthol, camphor and soothing oils. It stays put in your nose and gives off clearing vapors for hours. This action helps to open up your breathing passages and soothes the rawness inside your nose. If your cold is "farther down", rub a liberal quantity on neck, throat and chest.

Remember, don't take chances with head colds—call a doctor at once. Then get some Mentholatum to help relieve head cold miseries. Used by millions for over 40 years. In jars and tubes, at all druggists—only 30¢.

COUNCIL SILENT ON WATER PLEA

public opinion by keeping the objective of a greater Mansfield in mind."

Working toward this end, he explained that the chamber already had planned a revival of the "Town Hall" meetings, the first of which is scheduled to be held in the chamber's assembly rooms on March 23.

He said invitations had gone out to every civic organization in the city asking them to have three representatives at the meeting for the purpose of "putting this program across" to the public.

"If there is anything more that the Chamber of Commerce can do to formulate public sentiment for the program, we are at your service," he told council.

Mayor Points to Sewers.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter speaking briefly said that he appreciated the comprehensive picture given by VanDerau and was well aware of the needs in the present water system but that council had gone as far as it could with the limited funds.

He reminded council that it had the sewer problem before it and should not let the water program overshadow the need for the revamping necessary in the sewers.

"Patch Upon Patch."

"Water is one of the things that this city has been temporizing with for several years," VanDerau said.

"You hired engineers to make a survey. You paid the fee and received a complete survey with recommendations, but nothing has been done about it.

"The fact still remains that the city's water system is patch upon patch but a couple catastrophes like we had last week and it will wake up the people of Mansfield," he declared.

He cited what he termed a "shaving of $10,000," from the recently completed Woodland water project at the cost of a "$40,000 fire." "That's not good business," he asserted.

VanDerau referred to the fire that levelled the home of R. E. Imhoff on Woodhill road when an inadequate water supply was disclosed in that district.

After reviewing the needed improvements in the distribution system as outlined in the survey made by George B. Gascoigne and Associates, Cleveland consulting engineers, VanDerau told council that approximately $600,000 would be needed to follow out the recommendations.

"You can't fool around and patch up the situation," he said. "You've got to plunge."

Says System Undersized.

"The water system was designed for a city half the present size of Mansfield. The same is true about the sewer system that the mayor is fighting for. It was designed for a city of only 20,000 population," he added.

VanDerau declared that if a fire would wipe out "a couple business blocks," or that one of the schools was destroyed, "you'd get damn quick action then—for an aroused public would demand it."

He pointed out that the proposed $600,000 would take care of only present needs and offer adequate fire protection without providing for any future growth of the city.

That amount, he explained, would care for the first three brackets outlined in the survey, part of which already has been completed—the Woodland project. The balance of this project amounting to approximately $32,000 together with the other two brackets of $275,000 each, would complete the job.

These proposals call for the elimination of all four-inch lines in the city (approximately half mains are 4-inch size); elimination of the North Main street pumping station condemned by the state department of health several years ago; construction of a storage tank in Lumbermens Heights and several heavy mains throughout the city.

VanDerau pointed out as he said other officials have on numerous occasions that the lack of fire protection in the mercantile district is costing Mansfielders $50,000 annually in additional insurance premiums.

He cited the high capacity main which was laid last summer on Lexington avenue and which was extended only to Blanche street.

"Fire protection stops there because this line was not brought into the downtown district as was proposed in the engineers' survey," he said.

BEFORE BEDTIME DO THIS FOR

BRONCHITIS

And Enjoy A Good Night's Rest

Sleep sounder and awake refreshed—just be wise enough to take 2 or 3 doses of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE (triple acting) in sweetened hot water just before you go to bed.

For Bronchial coughs—for tough, old persistent coughs, take a few doses of BUCKLEY'S—by far the largest-selling cough medicine in all cold Canada—Buckley's gives definite quick relief from that choking gasping struggle for breath.

It "acts like a flash" and satisfaction is guaranteed. Get it at druggists everywhere.

Weinberger's Drug.

GALION—M. H. Kennard of Harding Way East was admitted to the Good Samaritan hospital this week for treatment.

WHY TAKE CHANCES WITH HEAD COLDS?

If you feel a head cold coming on — take no chances—call a doctor at once. He will probably suggest a light liquid diet and put you to bed. Only Nature can cure a cold and you can help Nature best by getting plenty of rest.

To rest comfortably, you should be able to breathe freely thru your nose. Here's a simple thing that will help ease your breathing and thus promote restful sleep. If your nose is stopped up with mucus, due to a cold, get a jar or tube of Mentholatum at any drug store. Put some in each nostril and snuff it up as far as you can. Mentholatum is a mild, cooling ointment containing menthol, camphor and soothing oils. It stays put in your nose and gives off clearing vapors for hours. This action helps to open up your breathing passages and soothe the rawness inside your nose. If your cold is "farther down", rub a liberal quantity on neck, throat and chest.

Remember, don't take chances with head colds—call a doctor at once. Then get some Mentholatum to help relieve head cold miseries. Used by millions for over 40 years. In jars and tubes, at all druggists—only 30¢.

HIGH SCHOOL TO STAGE BENEFIT SHOW MARCH 23

Westinghouse Minstrels and Variety Acts Included on Two-Part Program.

A benefit performance of the Westinghouse Glee club minstrels to raise money for new roller curtains and drapes for the Senior high school auditorium, will be presented in the auditorium March 23, school officials announced today.

The show is being sponsored by the school with all proceeds to be used to purchase dark roller curtains and drapes for all windows in the auditorium. They will replace the red drapes that have been in use since the school was opened in 1927.

The program will be staged in two parts, the first consisting of an old-time minstrel show, and the second half being made up of a variety of vaudeville acts, L. C. Baumgardner, general chairman said.

Tickets will be sold by students of the school. The ticket sale is in charge of the Student Representative Council with Marjorie Mahon as chairman.

Dates Set for Seniors.

Dates of five graduation activities for the June graduating class were announced today by Harold Duda, class president. They are, class play, May 19; senior play, May 26; class day exercises, June 2; Baccalaureate, June 4, and commencement exercises, June 8.

Change in date of the annual spring music festival by the Senior high and Hedges and John Simpson Junior high school bands, was announced today by J. Merton Holcombe, director of band music in the public schools.

The festival, tentatively set for May 19, has been changed to Thursday, May 25. The shift was made due to a change in date of the senior class play.

A stamp auction and "swap night" will be held by the Stamp club of the high school at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Mansfield Public library. The auction will be open to all collectors of stamps, according to Ed Eisele, club president. The auction is in charge of the program committee made up of Robert Meeker and William Houston.

The trophy was presented to Principal Jesse Beer in behalf of the school by David Shelley, a member of the team. Short talks were given by Baer, Shelley and Jack Lyons, captain of the team. Members of the team were introduced by Lyons.

Book of the Week

"THE LETTERS OF T. E. LAWRENCE: EDITED BY DAVID GARNETT;" (Doubleday, Doran: $5).

IF ANYBODY buys a copy of "The Letters of T. E. Lawrence" expecting to find therein the mirror of a great mind in the body of a great man, heaven help him.

A mind is mirrored, all right, but it is a small mind, self-centered, intolerant, inaccurate, often childish, sometimes abominably clever. No one doubts the accomplishments of Lawrence, but it is a revelation to see what these things did to the mind that directed them.

As an example—on one page of the Letters we find Lawrence bewailing the attention paid him by the despised public and the hated newspapers—and on the next shrewdly capitalizing both.

As another example — Lowell Thomas. Thomas' "The Boys' Life of Colonel Lawrence" (Appleton-Century; $2) arrived simultaneously with the Letters. Says the jacket of the former: "Here in this volume Lawrence's story is set down for younger readers by the man who knows him best—Lowell Thomas, who was with Lawrence during his most daring escapades in Arabia."

But on page 545 of the Letters: "Of course, as you know, Lowell Thomas was not with me on any ride or operation in Arabia. I do not know how long he was in the country, for he arrived while I was up-country, and I had gone up again before he left. I expect he was there some ten or fourteen days, in all; of which we were together in Akaba for perhaps three."

This looks strange—but one who reads far in the Letters will soon learn not to trust them too much. On one page Lawrence professes horror of money, position and whatnot—on another, asks a woman to find a millionaire to put up 300 pounds for a copy of that most muddled book, "Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

Or, after changing name and dodging publicity so noisily that you couldn't fail to notice him any more than you could overlook a blue-bottle finding a hiding place: "It isn't that I hate being known—I'd love it—but I can't afford it; no one gets so victimized as a poor celebrity." Or this: "England is the only place fit to live in."

The inference might be that these scraps, withdrawn from their context, distort the picture. Mostly they improve it. By J. S.

FOLSOM FELONS BUSY INVENTORS

Many Convicts Utilize Time by Creating New Gadgets for Outside World.

(By United Press)

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal.—Convicts in Folsom prison do more than break rocks and sleep in their cells. Many inmates improve their time with writing and inventing.

When one invented a gadget to measure the speed of a typewriter, he received general attention. It was such a simple invention and yet so handy, particularly in business schools.

One of the most peculiar inventions was a double barreled fountain pen for bookkeepers, that changes from red to black ink at the flip of a lever. Another man brought out an improved shock absorber which is now standard equipment on a well-known truck.

Newspapers, magazines and trade publications have recognized the ability pent up within prison walls and buy many ideas for contests, promotional campaigns and selling features. One of the men worked out a parlor game which soon will be paying him royalties. Many free lance writers are busy behind prison bars. Musicians compose songs which find a ready sale. A book of yacht navigation was written by one of the inmates.

The study of law has captured the imagination of many men and while it can not always be turned into financial gain, proves valuable in other ways. Warren Billings has studied law zealously during his many years in Folsom.

The skill in locks that many convicts possess was one reason why a man perfected a combination lock that is simple in operation but combines the best features of the ordinary spring lock and the tumblers of a safe mechanism. The combination is easily changed.

WORKMAN SAVED

Fireman Revive Him After Contact With Power Line.

BRYAN, O. —(INS)— Edgerton firemen saved the life of Kenneth Sleesman, 28, after current from a power line had passed through his body for 10 minutes, while he was helping to move a house.

Sleesman was believed dead when removed from the line, but first aid work by firemen revived him and he was taken to Comeron hospital.

ITALY EXTENDS SCHOOL OF AIR TO FAR LANDS

20,000 Enrolled in Literature Lessons Broadcast Daily to Pupils Throughout World.

(By United Press)

ROME — Twenty thousand students, scattered throughout the world, are inscribed in Italy's radio correspondence school which daily broadcasts lessons in Italian literature.

Courses end each June, when final examinations are sent over the ether. All those passing these tests receive diplomas and students with high marks are awarded handsome prizes along with their gold-sealed scrolls.

Honor students of the "over-the-air" classes are rewarded with free trips to Italy to see first hand their "alma mater."

The object of these courses, to use Minister of Popular Culture Dino Alfieri's words is "to disseminate to the world a more complete knowledge of Italian culture through its best writers and artists."

School In 5th Year.

The radio correspondence courses are directed and supervised by the Italian Radio University, under the dependence of the Ministry of Popular Culture. These courses in literature are in their fifth year. At the present time three courses are being held concurrently.

The first is an elementary course devoted to the study of the rudiments of the Italian language and a synthesis of Italian literature from the 13th century to the present. The secondary course goes over the same ground but in more specific detail. The advanced or high-school course deals in detail with the Italian writers of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The teachers of the advanced course are selected from among the most distinguished representatives of the literary, artistic and scientific world in Italy. They not only explain their own works but review and cirticize those of their living and dead contemporaries as well.

In addition to these courses, the Italian radio network EIAR daily broadcasts varied programs in 21 languages. Concerts, operas, lectures, sporting events and news digests are broadcast from Italy's powerful short and long wave stations. Italian stations daily send out an uninterrupted program for foreign consumption between 10:30 a. m. and 3 o'clock the following morning.

Broadcasts are in Italian, English, French, German, Spanish and Portuguese—primarily for South American consumption—Hungarian, Bulgarian, Rumanian, Greek, Serbian, Albanian, Turkish, Hindustani, Arabic, Japanese, Chinese, Bengalese, Danish, Swedish and Norwegian.

'Snow White' Returns Sunday

A return picture engagement that is of more than ordinary interest is that of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" which comes to the Park theater Sunday for four days. This will be the second run of the picture in Mansfield.

A particularly interesting phase of its return is that it comes on the eve of the picture's withdrawal from circulation. The film is being shelved by the Walt Disney studios for two reasons: first, to get it out of the way before his second full length colored cartoon, "Pinocchio" is released; and second, Disney does not want his beauteous brain-child to share a double bill, possibly as a supplementary film to some lesser picture. For this reason it will be the only long feature at the Park next week, the remainder of the program being the regular short subjects.

BRINGS 4-HOUR PASSION PLAY TO CITY ON PASSION SUNDAY

For the first time in a number of years Mansfield will have an opportunity to see a Passion Play, and it will be, fittingly enough, on Passion Sunday—March 26.

Prince Umberto lodge of the Sons of Italy will sponsor the presentation of the Passion Play at Senior high school auditorium a week from Sunday. It will be a four-hour pageant and drama woven around the last days of Christ from the time of his betrayal to his crucifixion and the ressurrection.

The play will be presented here by the Mercede Dramatic club of Cleveland which has give it a number of times in that city as well as in Lorain, Sandusky, Akron and other Ohio cities.

There are approximately 100 characters in the cast which uses authentic costumes and scenery. The drama is staged in five acts and a prologue which shows the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday.

The acts, in succession, depict the betrayal by Judas Iscariot, the Last Supper, Jesus in the Garden of Gethsmane, Jesus before Pilate, and lastly, the sorrowful cortege which followed Him to Golgotha and the cross, the burial and the ressurrection.

The part of the Christus will be portrayed by John Rubino, Cleveland.

On the Mansfield committee in charge of arrangements are Mrs. Anthony Mollica, Mrs. Patsy Lasua, Mrs. Joseph Spitalier, Mrs. James Augustine, Mrs. Patsy Gregoria, Mrs. Fannie Miller, Mrs. Mitchell Marveson and Mrs. Sebastian Cappadona.

Tickets for the Passion Play are available at the Davis Drug store and Kafer's flowers.

Bromfields Move to Richland Farm By End of Month

Louis Bromfield, Mansfield-born author, will move his family from Oberlin to his newly acquired farm in Monroe township the last of the month. The Bromfields have been living in Oberlin since last fall.

The title of 247 acres of the 354-acre farm was formally recorded in Bromfield's name Tuesday at the courthouse. The former Herring farm together with the 107-acre Beck farm were purchased by the novelist several months ago. The purchase price of the two farms together with three houses and chattels was listed at $33,250.

The Bromfields will move into the house on the former Beck farm for the remainder of the year. Work on the Herring residence which will be the Bromfield home, will get under way immediately. The attractive old white farm home will be expanded into a 15-room house, conforming to the style of the early Ohio farm house. Louis Lammoreaux, Mansfield architect, will have charge of the building program at the farm. The remodeled home will not be ready for occupancy until the latter part of the year.

Max Drake, who recently resigned as president of the Medina County 4-H clubs to become manager of the Bromfield farm, took over his new duties several weeks ago.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1938.)

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Going up the steps of the courthouse for a marriage license, Lona tried ineffectually to hide behind Jim's tall figure. He laughed at her nervousness and linked an arm through hers protectively.

"They'll know we're hunting the marriage license bureau just by looking at us," he joked.

A grinning clerk directed them to an elevator and, at sight of one of the men lounging beside it, Lona tried to shrink closer to Jim's protective bigness. She had seen that man before! He was a reporter. She remembered him with a camera at the cemetery the day they buried her father. His features had been impressed indelibly on her memory as had all the details of that distressing scene, and she held her breath now, as he looked up from the paper he was scanning, and glanced at her and Jim. Turning her face she edged into the elevator sidewise, and making herself very small, slipped into the farthest corner. The fellow's eyes were still on them when the elevator door clickd shut, and at her last glimpse of him he was frowning and getting to his feet.

"Jim!" she whispered then, in alarm, "there's a reporter down there and I think he recognized me. What will we do if he follows us?"

"I'll punch his head in if he bothers you," Jim said. His lips were set stubbornly and he strode belligerently out into the corridor where the elevator deposited them. Nobody was in sight, and as they went through the door marked Marriage Licenses he pulled Lona's hand through his arm.

"Don't get excited," he told her, and marched her up to the desk.

It was over almost before it had begun, this operation which in her girlish dreams she had often thought of as one of the most exciting in a girl's life. A few questions from a slightly peevish clerk whose bored eyes kept roving to the clock whose hands were creeping toward closing time. Glibly she heard herself telling him her name, her address, her occupation. A pen was pushed into her hand and she was told to sign.

For a moment she hesitated, looking at Jim for guidance, remembering the conversation they had had about names. She thought of the reporter who might even now be at the door. Involuntarily she glanced around to see if anyone were bending over her shoulder.

"Write it, girl." Jim encouraged her, and she set the pen in the oldfashioned ink bottle determinedly. Another moment and it was done. She watched as Jim wrote in his name with his flowing scrawl and a sense of finality gripped her. There it was, for all the world to see.

At least there'd be no newspaper until morning, she calculated. She and Jim would have one night of peace!

Jim's hand was warm on her arm as they went back out the door into the corridor together. In its pressure she sensed that he, too, was acutely conscious of the folded paper that had crackled as he stowed it away in his pocket. The elevator door clicked shut just as they came up to it and they were forced to wait for its return trip. In the privacy of the darkening corridor Jim's arm slipped about her waist and he drew her close. There was just time for a quick kiss, and she knew her face was hot and flushed as the elevator caught up with them. The elevator boy grinned at them knowingly and she felt her blush deepen as Jim laughed aloud.

"Jim, behave yourself!" she scolded him, wiping her face with her powder puff to hide her color.

The puff was still in her hand when she stepped out into the lower floor hall. Looking up at Jim she saw his face darken suddenly, and she had a frightened glimpse of a small crowd gathered before the elevator entrance.

Then came the click of a camera, a click that was repeated before she quite realized what it was. Above the gaping black box, when she did locate it, she saw the grinning face of the reporter she had recognized, and with a little scream she covered her face with her hands.

But it was too late. "Thanks. Swell shot," the reporter said, pleasantly. "Now, if you'll just tell us the groom's name and where you are spending the honeymoon—"

He got no farther. Like a flash Jim's doubled fist swung up and connected with the fellow's grinning jaw. He grunted in the middlue of a word and, as Lona screamed in earnest, went down onto the tiled floor, the camera rolling from his hands. It fell at Jim's feet, and he tramped on it, crushing it savagely, grinding it under his shoes.

"Hey, you—" somebody in the crowd began, but the sight of Jim's darkened face and clenched fists stopped him.

"Anybody else want some more of the same?" Jim demanded, facing them for a second grimly. Nobody stirred and he slipped a hand beneath Lona's elbow and led her toward the street entrance. The fellow on the floor moaned and sat up as they passed him. His eyes made a wobbly signal to somebody close to the door, bringing out something that sounded like, "Get them, butch . . ."

At their side as they reached the door another figure bobbed up. For a moment Lona faced him, startled, afraid that he was going to molest them. But he only opened the door for them, smilingly.

"Good punch, fellow," he shot at Jim approvingly, and Jim managed a half grin. Another click seemed to come from somewhere near while their faces were upturned and Lona jumped again. But no cameras were in sight, and she breathed easier as they came out again onto the crowded street.

"You shouldn't have hit him, Jim," she said, when they had climbed into their taxi again.

"I couldn't have him taking pictures," he told her, defensively. "He can print anything he wants to in his old rag, but he can't have any pictures. And I'll wring the neck of the next one that even points a camera at us!" His fists were still clenched and he sat stiffly upright on the taxi seat.

It struck Lona, as he sat there tight lipped and grim, that his anger at the incident was deeper than it called for, and she watched him, puzzled. It was as if something alien had come between them.

"Jim, you look so strange," she brought out. "You frighten me."

"I'm sorry, girl." He relaxed, then, and put his arms about her. "I didn't mean—I sort of lost my temper, I guess." His drawl was back again, and the strangeness disappeared as suddenly as it had come, so that now she wasn't sure she had felt it at all.

"It's not worth getting so angry about," she tried to tell him, but he shook his head.

"You're too easy with people," he proclaimed. "Including me." His whimsical little half smile showed, and she smiled back.

Council Clears Way for Erection of Bowman Bridge

PLACES OKAY ON AGREEMENT WITH COUNTY

Work on Span Over Touby's Run Will Start in April; Cost Estimated at $10,000.

Mansfield is to get a new bridge on Bowman street over Touby's run.

City council last night cleared the last legal hurdle when it adopted a resolution authorizing Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist to enter into an agreement with the county commissioners for the construction of the span.

Work on the new structure of which the county will pay the major portion of the cost is scheduled to begin early in April.

Estimated cost of the bridge that will replace the present structure which was condemned a number of years ago has been placed at between $10,000 and $12,000 by County Engineer Howard C. Sword.

Provisions of the agreement already made verbally between city officials and the county commissioners calls for the city to finance the construction of the pavement and sidewalks over the structure and approaches.

It also releases the county from all possible damage claims that may arise out of the construction and provides that the city shall be responsible for detouring traffic during the construction period.

Council also authorized an appropriation of $1,500 from the sanitary sewer fund to finance the reconstruction of a 50-year-old storm sewer on West Fifth street near Miller street that collapsed last week.

Another appropriation of $200 from the garbage fund was approved to provide funds for repairs to be made at the garbage disposal plant building.

Two claims totaling $450 for storm water damage were referred to the claims committee last night. Martin Karl, 21 McPherson street, submitted a claim for $350 damage to the cellar of his home. Mrs. Anna Falter, 278 South Main street, asked $100 damages to food stored in the basement, which she claims was lost when water flooded her cellar.

The street committee had three petitions referred to it for consideration. Property owners on Second avenue from Orange to Monroe streets requested the resurfacing of the street. A petition from the Nichles Bakery, 194 Park avenue east, asked for a 15-minute parking ban in front of the company's property. R. A. Starrett, 1060 Park avenue west, requested council to improve an unnamed alley to the west of his property.

98 STAY CLOSED

Cleveland Drug Chains Still Crippled by Dispute.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Leaders of a four-union strike against three greater Cleveland drug store chains claimed today that 98 out of 117 Marshall, Standard and Weinberger stores had been forced to close.

Collapse of negotiations over renewal of a contract with the pharmacists union resulted in a strike call yesterday. The retail drug clerks, warehouse employes and porters unions went out in support of the pharmacists. All are A. F. of L. -affiliated organizations.

The drug companies, in a joint statement, asserted that the "only dispute is whether or not all our managers and assistant managers must be controlled by a closed shop union contract."

The Cleveland Federation of Labor voted support for the strike last night.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

NEW LONDON—A fire caused by a defective chimney destroyed the home of Walter Oney, one and a half miles east of here, early today. The flames were out of control when the New London fire department reached the scene, firemen reported. The loss, estimated at $2,500, was partially covered by insurance.

Up and Down THE STREET

For 20 years Walter L. Beckley, commander of McVey post, American Legion, has regretted that he just missed being a charter member of the first Legion post, but last night he felt worse than ever about it. At a program in observance of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Legion, Mrs. Beckley, who is state president of the auxiliary, recalled that her husband turned down an invitation to the organization session in Paris 20 years ago because he "didn't think it would amount to much." Mrs. Beckley added, jokingly, "and that's one of the things I still hold against him."

Patrolman Paul Martin who handles the duties of radio dispatcher and deskman at police headquarters from midnight until 8 a. m., gets a varied assortment of calls during the early morning hours, but 2:30 a. m. today he received what he termed was the "prize." The caller asked Martin whether Mayor Claude M. Hunter was a Democrat or Republican. "Can you imagine that," commented Martin, "a person living in Mansfield and not knowing that the mayor is a Democrat.

There's a "catch" to this story which has persistently bobbed up in the News-Journal office in the past few days. . . . It concerns a "homing balloon" which was made at an Ashland rubber company. Robert Smith, sr., says he sent it to his son, Robert, jr., in Dallas, Tex., and that Robert filled it with natural gas, clipped his name to it and let it sail away. Fifteen hours later, according to the story, the balloon, still intact, was blown back to Ohio and landed on the farm of Orville Holtz, two miles north of Ganges, and only 20 miles from its "birthplace." The catch is that a wind fast enough to travel from Dallas to Ganges in 15 hours would have leveled and devastated a huge path from south to north—in fact the balloon couldn't have traveled that fast on a streamlined train.

Writing a song which contains all of the names of a basketball team is no small task, but A. L. Derr, vocal instructor at Senior high school, did the trick. It was a sort of send-off for the Mansfield High team which is in Columbus today playing in the state tournament. The song was used yesterday to present members of the team to the student body. Needless to say great salvos of applause greeted the players—and the song.

REJECTS GROUP INSURANCE PLAN

Council Turns Deaf Ears on Agent's Plea to Solicit City Employes.

A renewed request—the second made by the same firm within three years—for permission to solicit city employes to subscribe to a "group insurance" fell on deaf ears in city council last night.

Council President Karl P. Troll waved the agent from the floor when he had finished with his request, with the statement: "They'll talk to you after the meeting."

However at the conclusion of the session, the agent L. M. Cathles of Toledo, a representative of the Aetna Life Insurance company, had difficulty in getting an audience although he did talk to one or two council members.

The agent's proposal was similar to the plan which "died" in council early in 1936 when an ordinance authorizing the service director to enter into a contract with the company, was tabled.

MARRIED COUPLES ON STATE'S PAYROLL EASED AS BILL FAILS

COLUMBUS — The married couples on the state payroll could breathe easier today, for the "Pat Dunn bill" had died another death in the legislature.

After a prolonged hearing, the senate commerce and labor committee delivered the vital blow, voting 5 to 0 to postpone the bill indefinitely.

It was at least the fourth time that such a measure had been defeated in the general assembly.

Rep. Dunn, a bachelor Democrat from Tuscarawas county, made a last stand in defense of his proposal and then attempted to vindicate himself in the eyes of the ladies. After declaring the bill would affect 300 to 500 people and would help solve the unemployment problem he added:

"Since this bill has been introduced I have been decried as a hater of womanhood. That's not true. "I love women."

Dunn's measure would have prohibited employment by the state of husband and wife except in welfare institutions and provided that upon its enactment either man or wife drawing state pay must immediately resign or both would be fired.

Dunn's most illustrious supporter was Arnett Harbage, the West Jefferson farmer, who has been dubbed the watchdog of the state treasury because he blocked a "mileage grab" by former legislators.

Harbage contended the bill would make jobs available for young, single persons just out of school.

It was bitterly attacked, however, by representatives of the league of women voters, the national woman's party, and the Ohio federation of business and professional women's clubs.

PRO FINED $75

Country Club Expert Can't Drive Car for a Year.

Joseph G. (Jock) Collins, Westbrook Country club pro will have to confine his driving to the golf course for the next year. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch revoked his operators license for that period this morning when Collins pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He also paid a $75 fine.

Collins was arrested by State Highway Patrolman W. H. Harrison at 8:30 p. m. yesterday on U. S. route 30N, a half mile west of Mansfield. The officer testified that he had been called to investigate an accident. When he arrived, he said, a wrecker had already towed the car from the ditch and that Collins was pursuing an "unsteady" course down the road.

Pleading guilty yesterday afternoon to a charge of operating a motor vehicle with license plates issued for another, J. E. Rein, 390 Marion avenue, was fined $50 and costs. Judge Kalbfleisch suspended $45.

SENATOR TELLS CONGRESS HE'LL SEEK CHANGES

Re-organization Bill's Debate Seen Overshadowing Oratory on More Relief Funds.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Byrd (D., Va.) demanded today that the government reorganization bill be fashioned into a two-edged weapon for cutting federal expenditures as well as inefficiency.

Shortly before the house-approved measure was brought up for debate in the senate, Byrd declared he would offer some "strong economy amendments."

"They would provide for retrenchment wherever possible," he said, "as a way to start cutting federal expenditures in the interest of a balanced budget."

Relief In Background.

The reorganization debate appeared likely to overshadow for the present the controversy over another question of federal pending—President Roosevelt's request for a $150,000,000 emergency relief fund.

His recommendation, once turned down by congress, is pending before a house subcommittee, which called WPA Administrator F. C. Harrington back to the capitol today for further examination on relief needs.

Advocates of the Byrd proposals expressed the belief they would give the senate economy bloc a rallying point at a time when many members are talking about cutting expenditures as a means of inspiring business confidence.

Byrd's proposals were expected to draw the fire of administration leaders, whose emphasis throughout the long battle over reorganization has been primarily on increasing the efficiency of federal bureaus. Supporters of the bill, however, argue that government reorganization inevitably would bring some savings.

Some senators declared the major argument probably would be over a proposal by Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) that congress retain the final word on all reorganization orders issued by the president.

In its present form, the bill would permit an order to become effective in 60 days unless both houses of congress adopted a nullifying resolution.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Proper Use of Food and Patent Preparations Best Answer to 'Fright Books'

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Recent discussion of unsuspected horrors which sometimes lurk in the food that Americans buy in cartons and cans, such as mouse hairs on nickel candy bars and weevil wings in flour, prompted me to examine again one of those "fright books" by which it is made to appear that the only way to escape poisoning is to live under glass in a hospital from the cradle to the grave.

One warning in this alarming work had to do with a famous brand of tooth paste. This paste, it was said, contained poison, and during the war a German officer committed suicide by consuming a tube of it.

This caused me to shudder, because it happens that I use this very tooth paste, but after a time I pulled myself together, reflecting that, after all, I have no intention of spreading it on my bread, and if 20 years' use of this paste in the prescribed manner has not been fatal, the danger is nothing to worry about.

The same feeling of calm courage possessed me after reading of the foul treachery of the man who sold adulterated ginger extract, causing a plague of paralysis, known as jake-leg, in Kansas.

Not even during prohibition, which was when this evil deed was done, did I use ginger extract for beverage purposes, and there was no assertion that a minute quantity, which is all that anyone would normally consume at once, would cause inconvenience.

Moreover, it may be remembered that during prohibition not only the bootlegger, but the United States government itself, poisoned the scofflaws, and that many of us consumed hootch which we had reason to believe was dangerously impure. Probably that experience has increased our resistance to warning outcries, for survivors of the long rebellion must feel that they were not born to die of poison.

The same work reports, in a tone of startled indignation, that the bright red hamburger which people buy at many roadside gas-and-lunch stations is artificially colored with a substance which wars against health, and often is overripe. That, however, is not news, and wasn't news even when the book was published.

People in the circle of my acquaintance use, in discreet quantities, practically all the well-known brands of tooth paste, shaving soap, rouge, powder, breakfast food, canned stuff, ham and flour, and, although at my age, one learns to expect occasional gaps in the ranks, no friend's death has been certified as due to such use.

I am not surprised to learn that some patent preparations cost much less to produce than the customer pays for them, nor does this news arouse resentment.

In the zone between the actual cost of ingredients and mixing and the purchase over the counter, many citizens take each a little toll in the way of wages or dividends on their invested savings, so they, in turn, may buy the services or the goods of those who pay the marked-up price for patent wares.

This undoubtedly being so, it is plain that, if the distributors, middlemen and investors were squeezed out of the play and the goods sold direct, with only a small profit to the maker, the unemployment and relief problems would be unmanageable. Many of those who are consumers at the so-called high prices today would not be in the market as consumers at all.

It boils down to the fact that, under our system, many of us merely go through more or less laborious, but unnecessary, motions to justify our existence.

As for the poison in the tooth paste, if we just bear in mind that tooth paste isn't jam, everything should be o. k.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Item in the local trade press: "Grace Hayes, the vaudevillian, has been signed by Metro to play Mickey Rooney's mama in 'Babes In Arms.' If a click, she'll go into remakes of former Marie Dressler flickers—opposite Wallace Beery."

Just an item—but what a story lies behind it!

To begin it at the happy ending, let's go to a little club out on Ventura boulevard and sit and sip while the music plays and the dancers dance. And while we're waiting for the floor show, let's look around at the rustic colonial interior, white walls and big open fireplace, cheery as a Christmas card. . . .

Here it is, the show. . . . A tall, slately matron in a silver gown, gardenias at her shoulder, moves into the spotlight, takes the mike. She's a looker — close-cropped blue-black hair combed straight back, dark blue eyes a little misty in the glare. She sings, in a sure, huskily throbbing flow of tone.... "It's three o'clock in the morning. . . ."

She sings on, and then she turns it over to Lind Hayes, her 23-year-old son, who sings and impersonates celebrities, and then Charlie Foy, her ex-husband, and Joe Frisco and other old-timers carry on.

Thirteen weeks ago Grace Hayes was broke. Headliner in the heyday of vaudeville, one-time headliner on Broadway and a nobody in Hollywood. She had saved in her time, but the '29 crash took care of that. She hadn't been able to do anything in pictures, outside of that long-ago "King of Jazz" with Paul Whiteman, and then a later "independent" movie which failed to set the world afire. Her son, Lind, was doing little better, and the world was indigo.

"I'd tried even to get extra work, but there wasn't any for me," she said. "I guess I had about $60 in my pocketbook, and no idea where more money was coming from, when one day some friends took me driving and we passed this funny old place. One of them stopped the car and pointed to the For Rent sign. Why didn't I take it over? they suggested. With what? But we went in, anyway—and that was how it began.

"Almost before I knew it, I was in business—on credit. And how did I pay off—in 13 weeks? Because all my old friends came in and worked for me, and brought their friends. They gave me beautiful presents to decoate the place, after Lind and I had painted the interior and remodeled a little. I couldn't pay anybody—I said I'd have to lift the mortgage before paying any salaries to my guest stars—but that made no difference. . . . "

Then she rattled off a list of names of big-timers, old and new, who have enlivened her programs. . . . People like Martha Raye, and Ida Lupino, and Ida's mother, Connie Emerald, and Joe Frisco, and Sam Pokrass the garrulous pianist, and Charlie Foy, and many more. . . . And Dick Powell, who saw young Lind work and got him work in pictures, and then the old "independent" movie which, remembered, brought her the new screen test and contract.

What's Percentage In Behaving?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Are you a party girl? A "wild-party girl," who lives on the telephone, straining her eyes for an exciting date? Is life without thrills dust and ashes to you? Is your motto: "A short life and a merry one?"

Unfortunately, even if you decide to go the pace, the rate of speed slackens as time goes on and you find yourself out-distanced at the winning post by younger and speedier fillies.

Perhaps you dislike homilies as much as I do, but as everything in life seems to be a case of what you get for what you give, it's a good thing to look facts in the face and check up regarding terms of barter.

Taket he case of "nice" girls. I get hundreds of letters from them. They write that unless they are accomplished drinkers, unless they pet to the limit, men dump them on their own doorsteps while the night is still young and they get no repeat dates. And the letter winds up with: "Is it sensible to be good?"

To look at the question with cold, clear-eyed logic, how many of these wild party girls get out of their frantic merry-go-round with anything left, even money? These ladies who see themselves strewn with pears and clad in sables have made their own hard-boiled decisions, and whether they win or lose in the long run, they go their own gait.

But you will remind me that the sad song of one canary does not make a chorus. We're speaking of the girl who sells her birthright for a very low grade of pottage. The girls who write to me about not getting dates unless they are wild are girls on salaries, usually medium or small, as the case may be.

Let me suggest to these girls that they look at the situation with the cold, clear vision they reserve for bargains. Do you think you're losing much when a boy who rates you as a woman of the streets doesn't ask you for a second date? Do you think that sort of a boy would make a desirable husband? Could you face with him the misfortunes that are bound to come into every life—sickness, death, loss of money, disappointments, all the witches' brew life has a way of dealing out to even the most successful.

Do you think a girl who sells out for a few cheap dates—movies, roadhouse dances, rides in a flivver, silk stockings, and the crowning glory of a cheap fur coat—has made a good bargain?

It pays a girl to be good if she wants to have a happy married life. Not many men are willing to marry what they cynically call "the leavings." And even if a young man feel she is sufficiently modern to forgive, he never forgets when quarrels arise. Happy marriages are made with faith and respect—unless of course, you're the type which hopes to marry early, late and often.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 17.

A DAY of very lively conditions, with much definite progress, is read from the predominant planetary influences. Much may be gained by steady and ambitious direction of the energies to high objectives, with merit and steadfastness receiving attention from those in power. However, there may be changes in plans and surroundings and certain anxieties of a rather personal nature. These may pertain to social, romantic or sentimental associations.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a lively and progressive year, with the ambitions sustained by application, good judgment and the support of those in power, whose friendly interest is assured. Yet, there may be changes and in the private life some social, domestic or emotional concern.

A child born on this day may be versatile, industrious and ambitious, attracting the attention and solid support of elders and those in power. Its private affairs may be somewhat beclouded or subject to deception.

Transparent containers for women's hats, for shoes, gloves, are now coming into use in the larger stores. The new boxes are said to increase sales by displaying the goods to better advantage and by protecting the merchandise from careless handling.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Then there came to me a flashing inspiration. I had in my grasp a most potent weapon with which to divert her mind, and if I could use it in conjunction with the granting of the demand for Noel's banishment, I might win through without a contretemps with Olina, which would be both painful and unnecessary.

"One thing I can do at once,, Mother," I said, "and I agree with you that the quicker it is done the better."

"You're going around Cape Horn to get to the point," she snapped. "What is this thing you're going to do at once?"

"I'm going to tell Noel he must leave the farmhouse today," I answered firmly. "Luckily, he will be able to go without fuss over getting him away. He can go back with his father after Mr. Veritzen has finished his interview with Queen Olga."

She swallowed the bait, "hook, line and sinker," then, in Dicky's atrocious parlance, "scrambled up the bank after the pole."

"What in time are you talking about?" she demanded. "Philip Veritzen coming here to have an interview with Queen Olga! Are you crazy? Where did you get it?"

"I got it from Mr. Veritzen himself," I returned. "That is the reason I am here."

"I was wondering what brought you home so unexpectedly," she said in a dazed sort of fashion. "Well! what are you waiting for—Philip Veritzen's permission to explain this crazy performance?"

"It is a crazy performance, I grant you that," I said, grasping at any straw which would "stall things along," as Dicky would put it. "But it is all Philip Veritzen's plan. Here is what he told me."

Using as many words as possible, that I might take considerable time in the telling of the tale, I outlined the request which Philip Veritzen had made of me, carefully omitting, however, his statement that he wished to propose marriage to Olga. That secret was not mine to tell, I assured myself, when the temptation to startle my mother-in-law with that particular tidbit grew insistent.

But my mother-in-law's keen imagination filled in the gap immediately. No sooner had I finished speaking than she made a trenchant comment.

"I know what he's up to," she said with an air of triumph. "The anointed idiot wants to marry Olga."

Beauty Woes Tragic to Youth

By MME. QUI VIVE

If life teaches us anything at all it is that we can't dodge troubles. The millionairess is as likely to have an ache in her heart or her tooth as is the little girl behind the counter. Existence isn't made to order for any one. So middle age and old age endure their beauty griefs with fortitude. Compared to worrying about the mortgage or getting payments made on life insurance, they aren't so bad. But youth! Youth can't bear anything that interferes with joyous activities. A cold sore appearing on the day of the big party is tragedy, nothing less.

And that is why mothers should not lightly dismiss the worries of their children though the sorrows be no greater than a trail of freckles over a cunning nose.

Blackheads and pimples are the bane of girls in the teen age period. Sebaceous glands are over active, due possibly to a diet too rich in sweets and starches. Instead of spreading a light film over the surface of the skin, the oil hardens, forms a plug in the pore, attracts atmospheric dust. They appear on the faces of children as young as seven. To combat them there is nothing more efficacious than vigorous scouring with a bland soap and warm water and a light pinching of the flesh.

If the black points are large they can be removed with an extractor which, if used with gentle pressure, will not scar the delicate tissues If pimples form in large numbers, if they are the kind that never come to a head, medical attention is advisable.

Care of the hair is important. The use of strong soaps do damage. Casual rinsing that does not remove all the suds takes away the gloss from silky threads.

Fingernails must be kept scrupulously clean. Bacteria will lodge under the eaves, and bacteria can be picked up by the respiratory organs to cause serious illness.

Correct shoes are more important than many mothers realize. Ill-fitting shoes worn in childhood can cause misery throughout a lifetime.

Cleanliness and habits of neatness are not to be disregarded. The little girl who steps out of her clothes and leaves them on the floor is likely to develop into a slovenly untidy woman. Character is ever in the making. It starts in the cradle.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

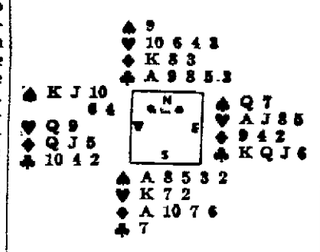
"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR JUST DESERTS

Just exactly what you deserve—no better, no worse—is what you get a majority of the time at the bridge table.

Good bidding and play usually offers rewards, and the converse usually costs you something. Duplicate players get a chance to know that better than anybody else, for they notice what happens at the various tables where different contracts are played.

Sometimes peculiar results develop, which seems to indicate there is no justice in the world, but in the long run they are unimportant.



(Dealer. East. North-South vulnerable.)

Only one South player in a recent tournament could resist the temptation to make a spade overcall of the opening bid by East on this deal. There it went 1-Heart by East, 1-Spade by West, 2-Clubs by East, 2-Spades by West and all pass, the contract being set two by means of the club A, two club ruffs, two diamond tricks, one heart and the trump A. This gave North and South 100 points.

At another table East started with 1-Club, South bid 1-Spade, West doubled, North 1-No Trump, East doubled, South 2-Diamonds and West tried a thin double. This was made for a score of 130 for North-South, doubled tricks counting 40 each and bonus for making the contract 50.

At a third table, after the same bidding up to the double of North's 1-No Trump, South left in the woeful contract, which was set one, 200 for East-West.

In a fourth case, after South took out the No Trump double with 2-Diamonds, West essayed 2-No Trump and made it, for 120 points.

In a fifth instance, after that same bidding, East raised the 2-No Trump to 3-No Trump, and it was set one doubled by South, for a score of 100 points and a tie for North-South top.

The set scores disclosed generally penalties for bad work, rewards for good, in the handling of delicate close questions.

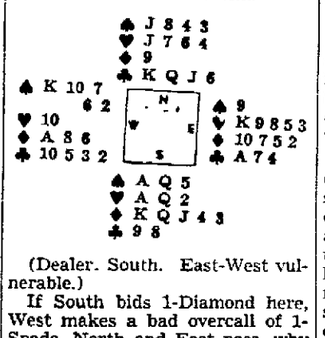
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Diamond here, West makes a bad overcall of 1-Spade, North and East pass, why should South double instead of bidding 2-Diamonds?

How To Live Happily Ever After

(This is the third of twelve articles answering some of the questions most frequently asked by couples contemplating marriage.)

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

(AP Feature Service Writer)

AN ARDENT golfer may marry a bridge fiend, and both live happily ever after. Round the corner, a golf-bridge combination may end up in the divorce court.

Why can't couple B get along if couple A does?

Mrs. Helen M. Lynd, lecturer in the marriage course at Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y., and co-author with her husband of "Middletown" and "Middletown in Transition," has an answer.

Half and Half.

Half of couple B demands a partner of identical tastes. But both halves of couple A get along because they compromise on their differences, or follow the "live and let live" principle.

So before you get excited, says Mrs Lynd, figure out whether or not you demand identical tastes in others.

If you don't like athletics, why wed a tennis fiend?

Maybe you don't. Perhaps an individual of different tastes stimulates you. He may be a life insurance salesman and you may be a piano teacher, but you still can talk about each other's job without fighting

But if you are jarred by people of different tastes, don't let yourself get too fond of anyone of another type. If you think athletics a waste of time, it's pretty futile to fall in love with an energetic lad who gives his all on the tennis court daily, and between seasons thinks solely in terms of calories for muscle-building.

Study Your Friends.

How to go about this job of deciding about similar tastes? Just look at your friends, says Mrs. Lynd. See whether they're like or unlike you. That should help in deciding the question.

If you prefer them different, how different? Do you enjoy a good scrap with the ones who are different, or do you find yourself unable to discuss controversial matters without either losing your temper or going tongue-tied?

But there's this difference in friend-analysis and prospective partner-analysis, says Mrs. Lynd:

Everyone expects of a prospective husband (or wife) all that he can't get from his friends—and more.

An individual will tolerate imperfections in his friends, and will say philosophically, "Well, Jim is like that; you have to get used to him." But husbandly and wifely imperfections don't slide by so easily.

You Can't Always Win.

What's more, people—especially women, says Mrs. Lynd—want the future mate to possess qualities that don't go together.

"Women want a man to give them economic security," says Mrs. Lynd. "That means he must be an aggressor. At the same time they expect him to be a gentle, kindly individual, considerate of others. He often can't be if he is to get ahead in the business world."

All desirable traits don't go together, points out Mrs. Lynd. A man who is easy-going in social relations—a good fellow, always willing to fall in with the gang—may not always remember to notify his wife in advance when he's bringing guests home for dinner. She likes him to be casual abroad—but not at home.

Get down to earth, admonishes Mrs. Lynd, and realize you can't have everything in a marriage partner. Decide what you need and want most—and can best get along without. This self-analysis she admits, is sometimes pretty difficult, but "know thyself" is the first secret of success in marriage. Then it's far easier to know the other person.

Cut oranges, apples and lemons will keep better if placed on waxed paper, cut side down, or with a glass tumbler turned over them. Keep in refrigerator or other cool place, of course.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

What's Percentage In Behaving?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Are you a party girl? A "wild-party girl," who lives on the telephone, straining her eyes for an exciting date? Is life without thrills dust and ashes to you? Is your motto: "A short life and a merry one?"

Unfortunately, even if you decide to go the pace, the rate of speed slackens as time goes on and you find yourself out-distanced at the winning post by younger and speedier fillies.

Perhaps you dislike homilies as much as I do, but as everything in life seems to be a case of what you get for what you give, it's a good thing to look facts in the face and check up regarding terms of barter.

Taket he case of "nice" girls. I get hundreds of letters from them. They write that unless they are accomplished drinkers, unless they pet to the limit, men dump them on their own doorsteps while the night is still young and they get no repeat dates. And the letter winds up with: "Is it sensible to be good?"

To look at the question with cold, clear-eyed logic, how many of these wild party girls get out of their frantic merry-go-round with anything left, even money? These ladies who see themselves strewn with pears and clad in sables have made their own hard-boiled decisions, and whether they win or lose in the long run, they go their own gait.

But you will remind me that the sad song of one canary does not make a chorus. We're speaking of the girl who sells her birthright for a very low grade of pottage. The girls who write to me about not getting dates unless they are wild are girls on salaries, usually medium or small, as the case may be.

Let me suggest to these girls that they look at the situation with the cold, clear vision they reserve for bargains. Do you think you're losing much when a boy who rates you as a woman of the streets doesn't ask you for a second date? Do you think that sort of a boy would make a desirable husband? Could you face with him the misfortunes that are bound to come into every life—sickness, death, loss of money, disappointments, all the witches' brew life has a way of dealing out to even the most successful.

Do you think a girl who sells out for a few cheap dates—movies, roadhouse dances, rides in a flivver, silk stockings, and the crowning glory of a cheap fur coat—has made a good bargain?

It pays a girl to be good if she wants to have a happy married life. Not many men are willing to marry what they cynically call "the leavings." And even if a young man feel she is sufficiently modern to forgive, he never forgets when quarrels arise. Happy marriages are made with faith and respect—unless of course, you're the type which hopes to marry early, late and often.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 17.

A DAY of very lively conditions, with much definite progress, is read from the predominant planetary influences. Much may be gained by steady and ambitious direction of the energies to high objectives, with merit and steadfastness receiving attention from those in power. However, there may be changes in plans and surroundings and certain anxieties of a rather personal nature. These may pertain to social, romantic or sentimental associations.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a lively and progressive year, with the ambitions sustained by application, good judgment and the support of those in power, whose friendly interest is assured. Yet, there may be changes and in the private life some social, domestic or emotional concern.

A child born on this day may be versatile, industrious and ambitious, attracting the attention and solid support of elders and those in power. Its private affairs may be somewhat beclouded or subject to deception.

Transparent containers for women's hats, for shoes, gloves, are now coming into use in the larger stores. The new boxes are said to increase sales by displaying the goods to better advantage and by protecting the merchandise from careless handling.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Then there came to me a flashing inspiration. I had in my grasp a most potent weapon with which to divert her mind, and if I could use it in conjunction with the granting of the demand for Noel's banishment, I might win through without a contretemps with Olina, which would be both painful and unnecessary.

"One thing I can do at once,, Mother," I said, "and I agree with you that the quicker it is done the better."

"You're going around Cape Horn to get to the point," she snapped. "What is this thing you're going to do at once?"

"I'm going to tell Noel he must leave the farmhouse today," I answered firmly. "Luckily, he will be able to go without fuss over getting him away. He can go back with his father after Mr. Veritzen has finished his interview with Queen Olga."

She swallowed the bait, "hook, line and sinker," then, in Dicky's atrocious parlance, "scrambled up the bank after the pole."

"What in time are you talking about?" she demanded. "Philip Veritzen coming here to have an interview with Queen Olga! Are you crazy? Where did you get it?"

"I got it from Mr. Veritzen himself," I returned. "That is the reason I am here."

"I was wondering what brought you home so unexpectedly," she said in a dazed sort of fashion. "Well! what are you waiting for—Philip Veritzen's permission to explain this crazy performance?"

"It is a crazy performance, I grant you that," I said, grasping at any straw which would "stall things along," as Dicky would put it. "But it is all Philip Veritzen's plan. Here is what he told me."

Using as many words as possible, that I might take considerable time in the telling of the tale, I outlined the request which Philip Veritzen had made of me, carefully omitting, however, his statement that he wished to propose marriage to Olga. That secret was not mine to tell, I assured myself, when the temptation to startle my mother-in-law with that particular tidbit grew insistent.

But my mother-in-law's keen imagination filled in the gap immediately. No sooner had I finished speaking than she made a trenchant comment.

"I know what he's up to," she said with an air of triumph. "The anointed idiot wants to marry Olga."

Beauty Woes Tragic to Youth

By MME. QUI VIVE

If life teaches us anything at all it is that we can't dodge troubles. The millionairess is as likely to have an ache in her heart or her tooth as is the little girl behind the counter. Existence isn't made to order for any one. So middle age and old age endure their beauty griefs with fortitude. Compared to worrying about the mortgage or getting payments made on life insurance, they aren't so bad. But youth! Youth can't bear anything that interferes with joyous activities. A cold sore appearing on the day of the big party is tragedy, nothing less.

And that is why mothers should not lightly dismiss the worries of their children though the sorrows be no greater than a trail of freckles over a cunning nose.

Blackheads and pimples are the bane of girls in the teen age period. Sebaceous glands are over active, due possibly to a diet too rich in sweets and starches. Instead of spreading a light film over the surface of the skin, the oil hardens, forms a plug in the pore, attracts atmospheric dust. They appear on the faces of children as young as seven. To combat them there is nothing more efficacious than vigorous scouring with a bland soap and warm water and a light pinching of the flesh.

If the black points are large they can be removed with an extractor which, if used with gentle pressure, will not scar the delicate tissues. If pimples form in large numbers, if they are the kind that never come to a head, medical attention is advisable.

Care of the hair is important. The use of strong soaps do damage. Casual rinsing that does not remove all the suds takes away the gloss from silky threads.

Fingernails must be kept scrupulously clean. Bacteria will lodge under the eaves, and bacteria can be picked up by the respiratory organs to cause serious illness.

Correct shoes are more important than many mothers realize. Ill-fitting shoes worn in childhood can cause misery throughout a lifetime.

Cleanliness and habits of neatness are not to be disregarded. The little girl who steps out of her clothes and leaves them on the floor is likely to develop into a slovenly untidy woman. Character is ever in the making. It starts in the cradle.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

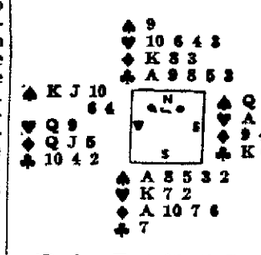
"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR JUST DESERTS

Just exactly what you deserve—no better, no worse—is what you get a majority of the time at the bridge table.

Good bidding and play usually offers rewards, and the converse usually costs you something. Duplicate players get a chance to know that better than anybody else, for they notice what happens at the various tables where different contracts are played.

Sometimes peculiar results develop, which seems to indicate there is no justice in the world, but in the long run they are unimportant.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

Only one South player in a recent tournament could resist the temptation to make a spade overcall of the opening bid by East on this deal. There it went 1-Heart by East, 1-Spade by West, 2-Clubs by East, 2-Spades by West and all pass, the contract being set two by means of the club A, two club ruffs, two diamond tricks, one heart and the trump A. This gave North and South 100 points.

At another table East started with 1-Club, South bid 1-Spade, West doubled, North 1-No Trump, East doubled, South 2-Diamonds and West tried a thin double. This was made for a score of 130 for North-South, doubled tricks counting 40 each and bonus for making the contract 50.

At a third table, after the same bidding up to the double of North's 1-No Trump, South left in the woeful contract, which was set one, 200 for East-West.

In a fourth case, after South took out the No Trump double with 2-Diamonds, West essayed 2-No Trump and made it, for 120 points.

In a fifth instance, after that same bidding, East raised the 2-No Trump to 3-No Trump, and it was set one doubled by South, for a score of 100 points and a tie for North-South top.

The set scores disclosed generally penalties for bad work, rewards for good, in the handling of delicate close questions.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Diamond here, West makes a bad overcall of 1-Spade, North and East pass, why should South double instead of bidding 2-Diamonds?

How To Live

Happily Ever After

(This is the third of twelve articles answering some of the questions most frequently asked by couples contemplating marriage.)

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

(AP Feature Service Writer)

AN ARDENT golfer may marry a bridge fiend, and both live happily ever after. Round the corner, a golf-bridge combination may end up in the divorce court.

Why can't couple B get along if couple A does?

Mrs. Helen M. Lynd, lecturer in the marriage course at Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y., and co-author with her husband of "Middletown" and "Middletown in Transition," has an answer.

Half and Half.

Half of couple B demands a partner of identical tastes. But both halves of couple A get along because they compromise on their differences, or follow the "live and let live" principle.

So before you get excited, says Mrs Lynd, figure out whether or not you demand identical tastes in others.

If you don't like athletics, why wed a tennis fiend?

Maybe you don't. Perhaps an individual of different tastes stimulates you. He may be a life insurance salesman and you may be a piano teacher, but you still can talk about each other's job without fighting.

But if you are jarred by people of different tastes, don't let yourself get too fond of anyone of another type. If you think athletics a waste of time, it's pretty futile to fall in love with an energetic lad who gives his all on the tennis court daily, and between seasons thinks solely in terms of calories for muscle-building.

Study Your Friends.

How to go about this job of deciding about similar tastes? Just look at your friends, says Mrs. Lynd. See whether they're like or unlike you. That should help in deciding the question.

If you prefer them different, how different? Do you enjoy a good scrap with the ones who are different, or do you find yourself unable to discuss controversial matters without either losing your temper or going tongue-tied?

But there's this difference in friend-analysis and prospective partner-analysis, says Mrs. Lynd:

Everyone expects of a prospective husband (or wife) all that he can't get from his friends—and more.

An individual will tolerate imperfections in his friends, and will say philosophically, "Well, Jim is like that; you have to get used to him." But husbandly and wifely imperfections don't slide by so easily.

You Can't Always Win.

What's more, people—especially women, says Mrs. Lynd—want the future mate to possess qualities that don't go together.

"Women want a man to give them economic security," says Mrs. Lynd. "That means he must be an aggressor. At the same time they expect him to be a gentle, kindly individual, considerate of others. He often can't be if he is to get ahead in the business world."

All desirable traits don't go together, points out Mrs. Lynd. A man who is easy-going in social relations—a good fellow, always willing to fall in with the gang—may not always remember to notify his wife in advance when he's bringing guests home for dinner. She likes him to be casual abroad—but not at home.

Get down to earth, admonishes Mrs. Lynd, and realize you can't have everything in a marriage partner. Decide what you need and want most—and can best get along without. This self-analysis she admits, is sometimes pretty difficult, but "know thyself" is the first secret of success in marriage. Then it's far easier to know the other person.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Dale Cleckner Rolls Perfect Game In Doubles League

Tyger Club In Columbus For First Tourney Game

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

COLUMBUS — Determined to emulate the feat of the 1909 predecessors, which annexed the only Ohio cage title ever won by the Mansfield high school. Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers reached this hotbed of basketball enthusiasm shortly before noon today for their first round tussle with the highly-favored Columbus North at the Fairground coliseum at 3 p. m.

The squad is quartered at the Deshler-Wallick hotel, where it will put up tonight, win or lose.

With the club in the proverbial "pink," Murphy expected the Tygers to give the touted Vikings a battle, but refused to comment on the victory possibilities.

Should they be successful in their game today, the Tygers will face either Bridgeport or Akron Buchtel in a quarter-final tiff Friday.

The Mansfield party consisted of 10 players, Tommy Scott, Jake Lyons, Dave Shelley, Ike Smith, Dick Rudolph, Rich Nagle, Don Rose, Bill Herpich, Jack Dugger and Dick Beer; Manager Johnny Koroknay and Head Coach Russ Murphy and his assistant, Harry Mehock.

Several hundred Mansfield followers were expected to be in the spacious Coliseum this afternoon at tip-off time.

Of all the baseball players in the Detroit Tigers' training camp, at Lakeland, Fla., big Hank Greenberg, home run king, receives the most attention from the camera fans.

Chuckovits Makes Hoops Smoke As Toledoans Rip Sports, 70-36

Former Rocket Star Collects 29 Points as He Leads Offense Against Bewildered Champs.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THERE is little doubt in the minds of some 700 Mansfield basketball fans today as to the scoring ability of Charles "Chuck" Chuckovits.

The ex-Toledo university star, who amassed a grand total of 1,189 points during his college career to set a new state record, stepped out before the local folks last night on the Mansfield high planks and gave a demonstration of how a player should push the ball through the net.

Chuckovits rattled the hoop for 29 points to lead his Toledo Collegiate All-Stars to a one-sided 70 to 36 victory over the Yuncker Sports, City Class A league champions.

That total, incidentally, is believed to be the largest ever marked up by a quintet in the Senior high gymnasium, and the whipping was the worst absorbed by the Sports in two years of competition.

Favors Pitch Shot.

Using a one-handed pitch shot to great advantage, Chuckovits gave the fans a treat as he slipped in 13 of the 26 shots he had at the basket. He served notice on the Sports in the early minutes of the game when he tallied his team's initial points, and from there on in the Yuncker team couldn't stop him.

Manager Jimmy Breres' outfit, which held a height advantage, can be thankful that it controlled most of the rebounds, or the invaders might have piled up a three-figure score before the fireworks ended.

The collegians, who set up easy shots beneath the basket with spectacular passing, coasted along until the third frame and then really cut loose with a basket bombardment that left the spectators bewildered. In that chapter they collected 27 points while Yuncker's team was garnering eight markers.

Although the club has played only three games since starting on the road last Sunday, the style in which the players handled the ball was brilliant, to say the least.

Chuckovits, who has been in the headlines by virtue of his great scoring power, also showed that he knew how to handle the speedy passes in setting up shots for his teammates.

Numerous times he had an opportunity to shoot, but whipped the ball to another player closer to the basket.

Pass Around Sports.

Leading by an overwhelming, 57 to 26, count going into the final stanza, the Collegiates had the Sports on their heels with a passing attack that featured backhand and left-hand passes which sped around the court like lightning.

Another interesting feature of the contest was the fact that the visitors, in collecting 19 buckets after the rest period, hit only two of them from the middle of the court. The rest were scored on short shots.

Charlie Jones, colored guard, whose floor work was the finest witnessed here this season, sank the two long heaves. Jones, who was replaced by Klepacz at the opening of the fourth quarter, received a great ovation from the fans when he left the floor.

Pilot Breres used two men on Chuckovits at different times, but couldn't halt him. When he was tied up, he would pivot or step aside and take a crack at the hoop.

Charles Cupp, lanky forward, was the left-handed passing artist and the manner in which he performed left little to be desired.

The Collegiates led, 17 to 12, in the opening chapter, and 30 to 18 the half. Al Stickler, who flipped in his share of the rebounds, paced

Page Dairys Advance In Willard Play

Return Friday to Tackle Tiffin Huber Motors.

Mansfield was still represented by two teams in the Willard independent basketball tournament after the first round of play on the Willard High court last night.

The Page Dairys walloped the Willard Square Deal Dairys, 30 to 11, last night, and return to Willard Friday night to engage the Tiffin Huber Motors.

The Yuncker Sports, the other Mansfield entrant, will make their first appearance against the Elyria General Industries at 7:15 p. m. Friday.

Although pushed in the first half, the Page quintet held the edge over its Willard foe all the way. The Pages limited the Willard club to only four points in the second half while registering 20.

The Pages stepped into a 6 to 5 lead in the first period and pushed their advantage to 10 to 7 at the intermission. Holding Willard scoreless in the third period, the Mansfield cagers extended their advantage to 20 to 7 going into the final frame.

Lockhart established the Mansfield team's scoring pace with eight points.

A's Expected To Hike Offer For Averill

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (U.P.) — Trade winds continued to drift between the close-by camps of the Cleveland Indians at New Orleans and the Philadelphia Athletics at Lake Charles, La.

Tribe officials shook their head when Connie Mack of the A's offered Infielder Bill Werber for Outfielder Earl Averill but the failure only brought request from Connie for another conference during the coming week-end with President Alva Bradley of Cleveland. The two clubs will engage in a two-game series Saturday and Sunday.

There is talk that Connie may throw in a pitcher with Werber or that Dario Lodiagani, second baseman, and Skeeter Newsome, shortstop, may be offered as bait to the Indians who are sorely in need of additional strength across the middle of the infield.

Tom Drake, Al Milnar and Bill Zuber were to see mound duty today as the Tribe renewed their spring series with the New Orleans Pelicans. First Baseman Hal Trosky was expected to break into the Cleveland lineup for the first time this year.

Reds Eye A. L. Third Baseman

Seek Werber or McNair to Bolster Infield.

TAMPA, Fla.—(U.P.)—The Cincinnati Reds were reported today in quest of either Eric McNair from the Chicago White Sox or Bill Werber from the Philadelphia Athletics, to plug the Reds' third base weakness.

Chief obstacle to the purchase of either star was believed to be the obtaining of waivers from one or two American league clubs.

The Reds dipped more desperately into the third baseman market after Charley English, one of the pre-training camp shining prospects for third base was sold yesterday to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league. Manager Bill McKechnie decided English's throwing arm was too weak for the major leagues.

Nolen Richardson became a hero in the Reds camp yesterday when he punched a looping single into short left field in the 12th inning to enable the Reds to defeat the world champion New York Yankees, 2 to 1.

Harry Craft scored the winning run after singling and advancing to second base on a sacrifice by Rookie Eddie Joost who continues to sparkle at second base.

Richardson, 35-year-old shortstop, saved the game for Cincinnati in the 11th inning when he made a one-handed diving catch to cut off Jorgens' potential hit with Yankee runners on first and second. The two clubs meet again today at St. Petersburg.

Johnny Vander Meer, young Red pitching ace, was recovering today from a minor appendix infection which doctors said was not serious.

Deal Involving Ducky Fails to Materialize.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(U.P.)—Holdout outfielder Joe Medwick was removed from the St. Louis Card trading block today following failure of negotiations with the Brooklyn Dodgers. "Medwick will not be sold or traded," said vice-president Branch Rickey. "I make this statement with no thought of trying to force him to accept the contract terms offered, but with a desire to deny current reports that he is in the open market."

Medwick is demanding the same $20,000 he drew last year and president Sam Breadon has offered $17,500. The Cards won their exhibition from the Boston Bees 1-0, yesterday as three recruits, Sherrill, Sunkel and Cooper scattered six hits to Casey Stengel's club.

FRANKIE FRISCH TO AIR GAMES FOR RED SOX, BEES

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Frankie Frisch, the leader of the St. Louis Cardinal "Gas-House Gang," followed a somewhat familiar trail today and became a radio announcer—but voice culture courses are out.

"Not a chance," snorted Frankie shortly after he signed a one-year contract to broadcast the home games of the Boston Bees and Red Sox. Salary terms were not disclosed. One of the contracts contains a clause which would permit Frisch to resign if a big league job showed up.

Heath Considered Best Looking Young Player In American League By Philadelphia Catcher

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

LAKE CHARLES, La. — (U.P.) — With apologies to Jimmy Foxx, let's identify the American league's leading hitter and then put him on the witness stand. His name is Earle Brucker, catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics who batted .374 last season, just 25 points more than Foxx did to win the league title. A little matter of playing in only 53 games prevented Brucker from being considered for the title.

Here are a few of his observations:

"It's a fallacy to classify the Yankees strictly as a power team. . . . The Red Sox and the Indians carried as much power last year but the Yanks had it all over them on the defense. . . . The Yankee infield is the best defensive unit in either circuit and one of the big reasons for their success.

"Bill Dickey is the best hitter in the league in the clutch. . . . Joe DiMaggio can be pitched to.

"Jeff Heath is the best looking young player in the American league. . . he's a coming batting champion. . . . A hitter who looks like a million dollars against the A's is Bruce Campbell . . . every time I look up he hits a double.

"Bob Feller, in my opinion, has more natural stuff than any pitcher in the league. . . . Monty Stratton looked like he was going to be one of the league's best and it was a tragedy that ended his career. . . . Another youngster who'll be a star if he gets control is Krakauskas of the Washington Senators. . . . Other youngsters I like are Bagby of Boston, Rigney of Chicago and Humphries of Cleveland."

Vie In Marion Finals Tonight

3 Friendly House Boxers on Title Card.

Three of the seven championships to be determined in the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament in Marion tonight may come to Mansfield.

Paul Carbetta of the Friendly House, a defending champion, meets Paul Mollenkopf of Bucyrus in the finals of the 112-pound division, while Beauford Glover, also of the Friendly House, meets Don Mathews of Marion in the 134-pound finals.

Jimmy Jones, Mansfield other entrant in the finals, is in the light-heavyweight division, but his opponent has not been selected.

In the other finals, Melvin McKinley of Ashland faces Sam Walker of Crestline, 118-pound division; Ernie McKinley of Ashland meets Harold Richardson of Marion, 126-pound division; Bill Scott of Marion tackles Louis Fridley of Bellefontaine, 140-pound division; Phil Ganni of Crestline vs. Merle Kleinecht of Galion, 160-pound division.

Slated for Pro Job In Rumor League

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Through with football at the University of Pittsburgh by virtue of his resignation last week, Dr. Jock Sutherland is an even money bet to carry his reputation as the nation's outstanding coach into the National Professional league, according to information going the rounds today. Routine announcement that the tall and dour dentist is being sought to coach the Pittsburgh Pirates failed to mention that he has been offered $15,000 for next season.

ARMSTRONG PUTS TITLES ON BLOCK IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS.—(U.P.)—Henry Armstrong defends both his welter and lightweight titles tonight against Lew Feldman of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the champion doesn't figure on working very hard or long for his share of the purse.

Armstrong defended the welter title two weeks ago in Havana, knocking out Bobby Pacho of Phoenix, Ariz., in four rounds but he hasn't had the lightweight crown on the line since he won it from Lou Ambers last summer.

SQUARE CAGE SERIES

AKRON (U.P.)—Akron Firestones and Oshkosh, Wis. All-Stars will resume their playoff series for the National basketball league championship tomorrow night at Oshkosh. They split even in two games here, Oshkosh winning last night, 38 to 36.

Deadline For Cage Tourney Extended

At the request of a number of teams, the deadline for entries in The News-Journal-Y.M.C.A. Gold Medal basketball tournament has been extended to Saturday night.

Don D. Cram, Y.M.C.A. physical director, who will manage the tournament, said that as many teams as competed last year have already entered, but the extension was made to permit the entry of additional clubs.

Entries blanks are available at the Y.M.C.A., where all teams must file their eligibility lists. The entry fee of $3 must accompany each entry.

Pick Referees For Mitt Show

Eichinger, Newton, Willard to Handle Bouts.

John Eichinger, Ray Newton and Jess Willard will handle the refereeing duties in the Junior Association of Commerce amateur boxing show to open at Mansfield high school, April 10, Perry Cook, a member of the boxing committee, announced today.

Paul Eliot and Raymond Morgan will serve as judges, and Walter Willis and Sam Fox will be the timekeepers. Francis O'Brien and Ralph Beilstein are the matchmakers.

A number of entries have already been received for the tournament, Cook stated. The deadline is April 3.

Players Selected For All-Star Game

One player from each team in the Grade School basketball league has been selected on the all-league club to oppose the champion Bowman cagers in a game at Senior high school at 3:30 p. m. Monday.

The players selected by coaches and officials follow: Marsten of Prospect, Brooks of Bushnell, Schwaner of Newman, Brauchler of West Fifth, Schmidt of Carpenter, Hall of Brinkerhoff, Adams of Western, Glenn of Hedges and Myers of Woodland. Earl Reichert, Newman coach, will manage the all-stars.

Donelli Takes Smith's Grid Job at Duquesne.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Little Duquesne university entrusted its football fortunes today to Aldo (Buff) Donelli, a backfield star at Duquesne a decade ago.

Donelli was named acting head coach and director of athletics to succeed John P. (Little Clipper) Smith, who resigned yesterday. The new coach has been Smith's assistant.

BEE IN AKRON

Clair Bee, Long Island university cage coach, former assistant at Mansfield high, will be a speaker at the annual all-sports dinner to be held in Akron Saturday, April 1.

Records Fall At Dartmouth

Borican Cracks Two Marks on Indoor Track.

HANOVER, N. H.—(U.P.)—Dartmouth's super-speed boards were credited with three more world indoor track records today.

Johnny Borican, Elberon, N. J., cracked the indoor standards for a half-mile and 800-meters, and the Fordham one-mile relay team set up a new mark in Dartmouth's second annual record carnival last night.

Don Lash, Indiana state policeman, failed by three seconds to better his own indoor two-mile record, and New York university's two-mile relay squad missed by 2.4 seconds equaling the 14-year-old Georgetown mark.

The 25-year-old Borican, sensation of the winter campaign, was paced by four Dartmouth runners who wilted under the hot pace. He broke the 800-meter tape in 1:49.2 and crossed the 880-yard mark in 1:49.8, breaking the record of 1:51.4 that Lloyd Hahn set for both events in 1928. Hahn had the identical time for both distances because he was timed only at 880 yards. It is approximately five yards longer than 80 meters.

Hangs Up 692 Series

Collects First 300 Tilt of Season on 7 and 8 at Meder Alleys.

DALE CLECKNER entered bowling's hall of fame at the Meder Recreation alleys last night when he wrote out a perfect game in the City Class A Doubles league.

The young speed-ball artist collected his 300 score in the second game after opening with an ordinary 178. He closed his series with a 214 and a 692 total, which was tops in the circuit last night.

First of Season.

Cleckner's 300 score was the first perfect game rolled on the Mansfield alleys this season, and it was only the fourth ever shot in league competition.

However, his spectacular game will not receive recognition from the American Bowling Congress as it does not sanction doubles leagues.

Bowling on No. 7 and 8, Cleckner, whose 300 game was the first rolled on the drives since last winter when Art Hilborn got one, collected 19 straight strikes in all.

He finished his 178 game with three in a row, and after marking up 12 consecutive knockout blows in the middle tilt, he came through with four more in the last setto before being stopped by a wiggling seven pin which refused to fall.

All of Cleckner's hits in the perfect game were in the "1-3" pocket except the 11th ball, which was a true "Brooklyn" hit.

Despite Cleckner's sensational mineralite wielding, he and his partner, Fred McKinley, obtained only 1136 pins. They won two games from Neil Swank and Duke Weber, but cinched the deciding and last tilt by only two pins. Cleckner contributed 300 of the 435 pins the duo obtained in its big middle game.

Brother Also Stars.

Winnie Cleckner, the 300 roller's brother, was next high in the individual scoring with a 632 count. He and his partner, Cecil Burdette, won only one game from Carl Heilman and Sonny Meder, however, the latter club winning the first game on a roll-off.

The other match found Cliff Forsythe and Jack Applan taking

A PLAY-OFF to determine the second round championship of the Class A Church league will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next week, probably Wednesday night, Don D. Cram of the Y staff announced today.

Four teams finished in a tie for the title in the closing games of the schedule last night, and a play-off will be staged to determine an opponent for the First Lutherans, first round titlists, in a championship series.

Park Avenue Baptist and Mayflower Congregationals held a one-game lead over the field prior to last night's play, but they bowed to their most serious rivals, who grabbed shares of the van by triumphing.

The first half champions gained a place in the play-off by outpointing the Baptists, 28 to 19, and First M. E. climbed into the middle of the title picture by defeating Mayflower, 21 to 18.

Two other games were scheduled last night, but neither was played. Episcopal forfeited to St. John's Evangelical and Temple Emanuel did likewise to the Central M. E. club.

First M. E. cagers encountered plenty of trouble in their tilt with Mayflower, and it was necessary for them to stave off a late rally to win.

The Methodists jumped into a 6 to 3 lead in the first period, led 9 to 6 at the half and held a 17 to 11 advantage going into the final quarter.

Heiser was the big gun in the Lutherans' victory over the Baptists. He tallied 15 points for the Lutherans, who held a 16 to 8 lead at the half.

Meets Vangler

GORDON ARQUETTE

Gordon Arquette, popular Indian matman from Yakima, Wash., will renew his fight to climb up the light-heavyweight ladder when he tangles with Sammy Vangler in the opener of Friday's mat program in the Armory. Arquette is convinced that he merits a place among the leaders of the division, but the importation of foreign aces has relegated him to the background.

Arquette and Vangler appear evenly-matched in mat skill and also in stature, so their bout should be a highlight of the card. Two other contests, however, get the feature billing—Kimon Kudo of Japan meeting Frankie Hart and the Masked Marvel opposing Davey Reynolds. Tickets for Friday's matches are on sale at Hunt's News depot and Ringside cafe.

THEATERS

SOME of Hollywood's behind-the-scene feuds are revealed in this week's Look magazine and while many of them are no surprise, several of them will cause lifted eyebrows. That of Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney, for instance. Both actors are "muggers" on the screen and in "Stablemates" the older actor thought Rooney was much too fresh. Other actors have made the same complaint against the juvenile star. The Joan Blondell-Errol Flynn feud surprises, as does the Grace Moore-Jeanette MacDonald. But the Joan Crawford-Norma Shearer coldness is well known, and Constance Bennett's unpopularity with most of Hollywood is no secret.

High-Geared Romance.

Two high-geared romances, one between Dorothy Lamour and Lloyd Nolan and the other between Tito Guizar and Mary "Punkins" Parker, supply plenty of love interest in "St. Louis Blues," which is a Madison attraction for the remainder of the week. The action takes place aboard the river showboat St. Louis Blues, although it is a modern story. Needless to say, Miss Lamour adds music as well as "ump" to the picture. The second film is "Disbarred," which revolves around a crooked attorney, and has Gail Patrick, Robert Preston and Otto Kruger in the cast.

Laughton at Ohio.

You' never suspect that a lazy, drunken, immoral beachcomber might dream of a quiet little "pub" somewhere in England as the ideal existence but Charles Laughton makes this seem very believable in "The Beachcomber," Ohio theater attraction. Laughton give a remarkable performance in this English film, and is equally well supported by Elsa Lanchester as the determined missionary in the Dutch East Indies who never saw but one man she wanted. The film runs through Saturday.

Three Younger Players.

Lucille Ball, James Ellison and Lee Bowman, three of filmdom's most up and coming younger players are together in "Next Time I Marry," a gay romance of an heiress who wants to marry a titled foreigner but who is blocked by her father's will which provides she must marry an American to get possession of her considerable fortune. A devil-may-care WPA worker provides the solution—or does he? The picture will be the Majestic feature, along with "Texas Stampede" Friday and Saturday.

Ayers and Barrymore.

"Young Doctor Kildare," the first of a series of stories that revolve around a young medical student who is determined to forsake the easy way offered by his profession in order to be of some great service to humanity, is on the Ritz screen today and the remainder of the week. Lew Ayers, Lionel Barrymore and Lynne Carver have the principal roles. Gene Autry's latest picture, "Western Jamboree" is also on the bill.

Campus Romance.

Tom Brown and Robert Wilcox gets right in and fights for their alma mater in "Swing That Cheer," a campus and football romance. The two girls are Constance Moore and Margaret Early. Andy Devine and Ernest Truex provide comedy. "Blind Alibi" revolves around the plan of an amateur sleuth to save his sister's reputation. Richard Dix and Whitney Borne are featured. Both pictures make up the Park bill.

CHUCKOVITS LEADS CLUB TO 70-36 VICTORY

the Mansfielders with 13 points while Willard Swihart followed Chuckovits with 11 markers.

The Blue Gose Sohioans sprung a surprise in the opening tilt on the program by dusting off the Westinghouse Electrics, 44 to 31, in a game that was featured with some hard blocking and tackling.

Led by Kenny Lockhart, former Madison high star, who collected 15 points, the Sohioans jumped into the lead late in the second quarter and were never seriously threatened. The Electrics held the advantage in height, but couldn't match the sharp-shooting Friendly House combine.

Coach George Percy's club tied the score twice in the opening half, but once the Blue Coose machine located the basket it never trailed.

The Sohioans were ahead, 9 to 6 in the first period, 23 to 12 at halftime, and 32 to 21 at the end of the third quarter. George Hummel who did most of the rebound work for his team, topped the Westies with 14 points.

2 OF 97 CASES HEARD BY JURY

Long String of Guilty Pleas Slashes County's Court Costs During 1938.

probation for lesser offenses if they plead guilty.

Of a total of 84 persons who entered guilty pleas or were convicted, 32 won probation; 29 were sentenced to state penal institutions, five to local jails or workhouses, and 18 were fined and received no sentences. Two of the 86 cases that were disposed of during the year were dismissed.

In one of the three cases in which convictions were returned, a jury was waived and Judge Huston heard the evidence.

Burglary and breaking and entering cases topped the list of offenses, with 17 cases on the docket as compared with 15 forgery and fraud cases, second on the list.

Fifteen convictions or guilty pleas were obtained in the burglary and breaking and entering cases. Seven sentences were imposed and eight of the defendants were placed on probation.

Only two of the 15 persons cited for forgery or fraud were found innocent. Seven of the remaining 13 won probation and six were sentenced.

There were no murder cases before the court during the year, and only two manslaughter cases were heard. In one of them a reformatory sentence was imposed, while the other was dismissed.

There were 14 non-support cases, with eight convictions and guilty pleas recorded. Four offenders were sentenced and four won probation.

Six liquor cases came before the court, but none of them involved a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The report listed 10 embezzlement cases and four for automobile theft.

$50,000 Blaze Destroys Faucet Company At Newcomerstown.

CANTON—(AP)—Fire which started around a gas furnace in the chromium plating room early today destroyed the plant of the Sterling Faucet company at Newcomerstown. The loss, partially covered by insurance, was placed at $50,000.

The blaze was discovered by the night watchman an hour before the plant's 65 workmen were to assemble for work.

FACES DEFEAT

Bill Continuing Fight Against Bang's Disease Up in House.

Defeat of a bill to provide state funds for continuing a program against Bang's disease in cattle was forecast today by County Agent George B Ganyard who attended a house committee hearing on the measure last night in Columbus.

Nearly a dozen veterinarians and dairymen from Richland county went to Columbus to hear the discussion.

The bill already has been approved by the senate, but the county agent said sentiment in the house committee was against it.

The measure would require the state to set up funds to match federal contributions for blood-testing of cattle and payment of indemnities for infected cattle which are destroyed to prevent spread of the malady. The federal government has been supplying all the funds in the program. Payments will stop on May 1, however, unless the state provides matching funds.

Urges U. S. To Keep Youth Program On Par With Fascists

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—America needs to keep pace with Fascist states, said former President Herbert Hoover, in providing recreational opportunities for youth—but with moral discipline as the goal, not regimentation.

"The Fascist program embraces much that we try to attain in our boys' clubs and Boy Scouts and our multitude of institutions devoted to youth," he said at a Boys' Club of America dinner last night.

"That is, they systematically examine them physically, undertake to build up their bodies, to give them sports and recreation, to give them encouragement and faith in the future.

"But it is practically compulsory. They build for regimentation, for submission, and for mental and moral subjection to their masters.

"That is not what America wants We want to build for moral discipline . . . we want education in truth, not propaganda."

'ANTI-BARMAID' BILL APPROVED

COLUMBUS—(U P)—The house temperance committee today reported for passage an "anti-barmaid" bill which would prohibit employment of women as marmaids, excepting the wives of the proprietors of places where alcoholic beverages are sold.

The committee also reported for passage a bill prohibiting employment of aliens as waitresses, waiters, bartenders, cooks, busboys and busgirls unless they have taken out first citizenship papers. This bill would not bar Chinese who are not allowed citizenship.

HITLER ADDS SLOVAKIA TO REICH'S RULE

Republic Calls on Chancellor for 'Protection'; Hungary Takes Over Territory.

protection to the protectorate.

"The customs administration will be taken over by the reich.

"Laws in force in Bohemia and Moravia will continue except where they run counter to German law."

Appears Before Crowd.

The Fuehrer spent the night at Hradcany Castle, formerly the Czecho-Slovak presidential palace, but went this morning to Prague Palace, seat of the old government, where he made a balcony appearance.

The crowd before the palace was mostly German and in response to the Fuehrer's appearance it set up shouts of "Heil!" and a refrain of "Fuehrer, we thank you."

Hitler did not speak. It was possible, however, he would address German university and high school students later in the day.

Like an ancient Roman Augustus, the modern Caesar wanted quickly to see and be seen by the citizens of Prague and to inspect economic and military resources.

He reached the capitol unobtrusively last night during a blizzard, following quickly after his army.

Hisses Greet Troops

The army, instead of the flowers and kisses they received in Sudetenland, got boos and hisses from Czechs on the streets but there was no great disorder. Because of this, great interest was apparent over the reception for Hitler.

The German Chancellor settled shattered Czechoslovakia's fate in a conference with its white-haired president, Emil Hacha, early yesterday morning.

Hitler in the late afternoon named Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten Nazi leader, to be civil administrator for Bohemia. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, commander of group three of the German army, was named military ruler.

Moravia's executive power was placed in the hands of Gen. Wilhelm List, commander of the fifth army group stationed in Vienna, and Moravian civil administration was vested in Joseph Buerckel, Hitler's commissioner in Austria

Dr. Hacha, under circumstances not revealed from the Czech viewpoint, had agreed to "trustingly" commit his proud Slav country to Hitler's "protection" after it had enjoyed 20 years of independence under the Versailles treaty.

Slovakia was a seperate state under German protection and Hungary took over Carpatho-Ukraine, the remaining provincial district of what had been Czechoslovakia.

Gloom Grips British Government Circles.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Bitter gloom gripped British government circles today as authorities surveyed the central European situation arising from Germany's acquisition of Bohemia and Moravia, and on all sides dark prediction for the future were heard.

Scant satisfaction was expected by officials from a second British note to Berlin, demanding an explanation of Chancellor Hitler's action in breaking up the war-born nation of Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, reviewed the latest central European developments at length at a conference in Chamberlain's residence.

Bitterness in London was increased with realization that—in the words of some authorities—Britain had been "smoothly double-crossed" Tuesday afternoon when the Wilhelmstrasse assured both Paris and London that Germany contemplated no drastic move regarding Czechoslovakia.

It was frankly felt here that the results of the final disintegration of Czechoslovakia are bound to be far-reaching.

Premier Edouard Daladier of France, some circles said, may find himself hurled from office and the position of Chamberlain may be seriously shaken.

Already there was a growing demand in Britain for an "all-party" or national concentration government—and a "house-cleaning" of the British intelligence service.

As for the future, it was felt that Italy, supported by Germany, will now boldly press her claims upon France for Tunisia and other French-controlled territories.

In so doing, Italy would be acting in the knowledge that Hitler's acquisition of the Czech Skoda armament works has wiped out the slight advantage over the totalitarian nations gained by the verish Anglo-French rearmament programs during recent months.

Suicide Wave Hits Czech Territories.

PRAGUE — (UP) — A wave of suicides that began with Nazi occupation of Czechia continued today with at least two prominent men among the dead.

The head of the Melnik radio station was reported by police to have killed himself. The death of Wilhelm Von Neumark, who had the title of "honorary" consul at Brno (Bruenn), was a suicide, police said.

Scattered reports of deaths by suicide came in from various cities as the Nazi military occupation cut off escape for many Jews and political leaders who feared Nazi reprisals.

SPECULATE ON NEW NAZI GOALS

Foreign Observers Point to Danzig, Memel and Ukraine as Possible Aims.

this, his hunches have worked. They wondered today what was his hunch, if any, on Danzig and Memel.

It was reasonably assumed that those two bits of pre-war Germany were not "vital" in British and French eyes, especially because of their large Germanic populations.

(The Memel territory, 1,099 square miles, population 151,960, was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles, first placed under control of a conference of ambassadors but finally handed over to Lithuania Feb. 16, 1923, Memel retained a large measure of autonomy.

(The free city of Danzig, 754 square miles, population 407,000, was taken from Germany at Versailles, placed under the protection of the league of nations and made a unit in the Polish customs administration. It and Gdynia are Poland's sea outlets).

Britain and France merely made inquiries regarding Germany's annexation of 7,000,000 Czechs in the present instance so it was argued that little Lithuania scarcely could dare to challenge German "protection" for Memel.

Can Poland Halt Him?

It was problematical whether the Poles strategically could prevent German absorption of Danzig. (Legislatures in Danzig and Memel already are Nazi-controlled).

Baron Col.-Gen. Werner Von Fritsch, chief of the army, and other carry-overs in the army clique cautioned against a German march into Austria for the Anschluss of March 13, 1938, but when Hitler and his troops entered the occupation was a cinch.

Some observers were surprised then that Hitler didn't follow through by taking Sudetenland to protect the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

Hitler waited until the end of September, however, before solidifying his Sudetenland demands in the Munich conference. Sudetenland was occupied in October.

Apparently the fear of a swift follow-up in carrying out the "mission of the reich in central Europe" already was upon Polish officialdom.

The chief of the Polish national unity movement, Gen. Stanislas Skwarczynski, yesterday stressed the need of a preparedness as a guarantee of "our interests and rights."

Toppers Favored In West

Sunny, spring-like days are bringing out more and more new spring hats these days at the Santa Anita races where Turf Club and grandstands look like a glorified old-fashioned flower garden in their array of color. Tiny sailors with crowns or brims or both covered with flowers; stiff sailors in rough straw braids with trims of gay wings, flowers or birds or bows or a mixture of all three; peach baskets, bonnets, bretons of all sizes, turbans, calots with big bows or flower trims, all appear repeatedly.

Tall spool and thimble crowns share honors with the flattest of crowns, 2-inch brims with six to 10-inch ones, snood backs with wimples and drapes. Veils are the most universal of all the trimming details. They cover the whole hat, the face, float in streamers, tie under the chin, stand up in bows behind, before or wherever. Several smartly dressed women have been noted wearing just a snood and no hat or just a veil tied over the hair. Several have even been so bold as to try the patience of the millinery world by appearing with merely hair ribbons—tied around their ever-increasing number of perukes, flat on top of the head behind a pile of short curls, pulling back locks on either side of a center part in little-girl fashion.

Paulette Goddard was noted recently in a white baku with shallow crown and wide, drooping brim covered all over and tied on with a very wide-meshed black veil. June Collyer (Mrs. Stuart Erwin), wears a complete flower sailor in light blue bachelor buttons with a violet veil over all. Ruby Keeler was noted recently in a violet suede beret of intricate cut, caught in front by a brilliant clip. Mrs. Jarvis Earle, Beverly Hills society matron, adds variety in a navy fine straw Scotch cap trimmed in plaid taffeta.

One smartly attired young woman was noted in a toast straw brimmed hat with spool crown of black bengaline and a huge bunch of red cherries in front. Much rough straw braid in various shades of toast is seen, also lots of novelty braids, plenty of fine bakus, shantungs and ballibuntls in natural, black, navy, various pastels and some white. White has not yet become markedly important, however. Quite a lot of shiny straws are noted in black, usually in small sailor types.

Suedes Continue Good.

Suedes continue to be worn to considerable extent, appearing in violet, chartreuse, lime, gold, cherry red, wines, fuchsias, light blues and a scattering of the luggage browns.

Cyclamen, chartreuse, fuchsias, violet, lighter blues, gold and banana yellow are recurrent colors in both hats and trims right now. Frequently they add color to costumes in light gray, beige, toast, black or navy or pick up a color in a print.

Perhaps the most striking thing about the millinery picture so far is the tremendous variety of styles and colors selected for early spring wear.

Queen Elizabeth Picks Her Gowns For Tour of U. S.

LONDON — (AP) — Queen Elizabeth is spending a lot of time being fitted for the 50 costumes she is choosing for her "American tour."

For evening the Queen has chosen mostly pastel shades to tone with her fair skin, with darker outfits for travelling.

Most mornings before 10 o'clock a half-dozen designers, fitters, and mannequins from smart Mayfair couturiers troop into Buckingham Palace to stage a private fashion show in the Queen's first floor suite.

The shows are informal affairs, and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose often accompany their mother when she receives "the dressmakers."

Elizabeth, a determined young lady with independent views, isn't backward about expressing opinions on the new fashions. Queen Elizabeth usually has three fittings for each gown she decides to buy.

Peter Russell features 12-strand necklaces with square-necked daytime frocks and picks up fur colors in accessories. Typical of the collection is a slim square-necked lightweight woolen dress with loose fox-cuffed jacket. Both are half-sleeved, met by long ruckled suede gloves. The latter, plus 12-strand necklace plus jacket lining plus petticoat and cummerbund pick up the fur-cuff coloring.

Featured fabric colors in ensembles of this type are cloudy versions of amethyst, aquamarine, azure blue or emerald, allied with blue fox, cross fox, or red fox.

Details include tremendous use of tucking, both for day and evening; diamond clips on the short sleeves of dinner gowns, and pearl sequin yokes for white satin shirtwaist dinner gowns.

Houses famous for their tailored technique are going in for "soft" dresses. The shirtwaist dress is supple with unpressed tucks and pleats.

Attractive Apparel for Girls

Suits are news in children's fashions. Here you see one in skipper blue homespun, designed with a collarless fitted jacket and gored skirt and equipped with a lined three-quarter length cape to match. Brown glove leather makes collar and cuffs for little sister's coat of beige and brown herringbone.

Sports Slacks, Skirts Meet; Form Summertime Ensemble

There's a new "must" on your list of clothing needs. This means that you will have a smart new sport shirt and slack ensemble. You will have alternates for both matching wear and combination wear. For you want comfort and style for your informal hours this spring . . . yes, and on into summer!

These new sports ensembles were formerly restricted to beach wear, but their natural ease of styling and comfortable appearance soon relegated them to all-sports occasions. While their prime object is comfort, their neat tailoring maintains a "dressed up" appearance.

Gabardines, sharkskins, rough-finish linens and popular covert make up the most desirable sports fabrics for spring. Light linens, and venetians will be big for summer.

These sports outfits are tailored just like your suit . . . with the exception of the result. For there are new lines and details included that add smartness and the desired easy appearance.

The most familiar and widely adopted style is the bush jacket. This jacket is featured in most fabrics, and its tailoring detail includes full and half belts, accordion expanding pockets and shirtmaker collar. Other styles include the well known polo shirt, half sleeve bush coat, crew neck shirt, draw string type and others. A growing favorite is sometimes known as the in-or-outer. This shirt resembles a bush jacket at the top, and is a slip-on, or button-up affair, with draw string. The shirt tail is cut straight—skirt like—and can be tucked in, or worn over the slacks.

These sports clothes are usually in a solid color . . . all beige, tan, grey, blue (about 12 shades of it), green, and other muted colors. These colors provide a great variety in your sports outfits at reasonable cost. For these colors and styles can be worn in combination, one with the other.

The slacks are available in all spring and summer fabrics. They feature tailored style detail, with a smart array of tucks, pleats, and tricks. These adornments are not of the race track variety, but are soundly styled for men who want a bit of dash in their sports wear.

Casual Frock Suitable For All

The casual frock with sleeves is the type described again and again in reports from retailers throughout the country as the desirable model for spring. It may be in a monotone crepe, in a taffeta print in gay color, a gypsy striped sheer, a printed organdie, or a three-color rendition . . . all of which are acceptable . . . but there must be a covering over the shoulders. . . .

The shoulder line may be adjustable, worn on the shoulder or dropped below it . . . or the shoulder may be covered with a sleeved jacket . . . or the sleeve may be very brief or full length . . . whatever its expresion . . . cross country selling is centering on sleeved treatments. . . .

Next in importance is the feeling that the Paris showings of straighter and slimmer silhouettes and highwaisted Directoire lines will assume later importance . . . for just now there is a lingering fondness for the bouffant skirt . . . in some centers the hoop and the strapless gown . . . the picturesque mode . . . is as strong as ever.

Although the picturesque type remains a favorite . . . it is the shirtwaist gown and the gypsy mode that are showing increasing sales in shops that adopted these newer ideas . . . and for late spring and early summer novelty mousselines in plaids and stripes are looked upon as the winners in addition to summer cotton sheers, pique prints and novelty cottons . . . especially in youthful dresses.

The shirtwaist top in lingerie or long sleeved colorful sheer with black skirt is mentioned among novelties that now are attracting consumer attention . . .

A variety of colors are mentioned in the following cross country reports as being fast sellers, although repeated more often than others are the blues . . . charteuse . . . pinks . . . yellows . . . fuchsia . . . rose . . . gray . . . white and black of course is important everywhere . . . with white a big favorite now.

Noted at London dress shows for private customers this week are sprays of lilac on lilac blue daytime ensembles; parma violets on parma violet daytime ensembles; yellow mimosa and white marguerites on black tailleurs. Artificial flowers are tremendous for daytime; they are mostly worn at the waistline.

Newest of New Styles Invade Men's Shops for Spring Wear

A trip through our sparkling, spring-like men's clothing stores will prove to you that the new styles are refreshing and distinctive. Suits, topcoats and furnishings all are distinctly s-p-r-i-n-g! If you want to see the best topcoats ever designed and offered . . . just take a look at them! you'll be convinced! They're new in fabric! They're new in color! they're new in smart styling!

The new topcoat, in general, is a compromise over two extreme trends. The first is the short "fingertip" model topcoat so popular last fall and winter with young college men. The second is the long greatcoat that was popular two seasons ago.

Style-designers and leading manufacturers tested and surveyed popular reactions to both extremes, and found the middle path as the most popular. Therefore you will find that new spring topcoats average from 37 to 38 inches from underarm to skirt hem. This is a bit shorter than last year, and more flattering.

New topcoats combine the extremes of drape and severity, and here, too, strike a happy medium. Tucks, pleats and gadgets are out. In their place will be found the graceful lines and sweep of a flared skirt depending from a narrower waist and wider shoulders.

Topcoats for spring have a newness about them that does not arise from their styling alone. For also you will find new fabric-finishes that are smart and enduring.

Featured is the fabric leader. . . covert! Here is a fabric that has tailor-ability, smooth "feel," and one that takes spring colors naturally. Most popular covert style is the new fly-front topcoat with saddle stitching at cuff and skirt. It is also shown in regular balmac and raglan styles.

"Dark Horse" for Spring.

The men's fashion's industry sees in the new raglan-type topcoat with set-in sleeves a definite dark horse. The easy swing of the raglan styling is preserved, while added comfort is achieved through rommier comfort at the sleeveheads and across the back. This style is shown in covert, gabardine, cheviots and worsted finishes . . . all fabrics abundant with color.

Always a favorite is camel's hair. The fabric is lighter woven and this popular fabric is shown in a new model that revives the free-swing back of two seasons ago. It is a double breasted model with either self belt or belt all around.

A new achievement in the popular reversible topcoat—the coat with the removable, zip-fastened lining—is to remove the feeling and appearance of bulk. The fabricated lining is light in weight and yet weather-tested for a maximum amount of warmth. Checks continues as the popular reversible pattern, although new simplified and solid tone paterns are gradually displacing this leader.

Even most conservative patterns have a soft mixture of modified shades . . . greens, greys, blues, and, lastly, brown . . . in mixtures that are spring-like and appealing.

The "slickie" fabrics—covert, gabardine, and other smooth finish fabrics—are most popular in solid tones. Yet even these are gaining new interest through their adoption of soft, hair-line over-squares on grounds of blended primaries.

The tweed fabrics and wool mixtures are the most colorful. Here herringbone is supreme . . . both the new small "suiting" herringbone, and the giant herringbone. The old salt 'n' pepper model is back, as is the hound's tooth. Others are tick weaves, diamond checks, diagonals, over-plaids and cross-patterns.

Nighties Worn As Formals

Dainty nightgowns, well made, with full flowing skirts, have been selling mostly for evening wear recently.

Particularly popular are these gowns with the younger girls, who will buy two or three of these sheers at the price they would pay for one real evening gown. Some of the most popular color combinations are fuchsia and chartreuse, gray and citron, blue and dubonnet, and blue and fuchsia. The skirt and lower part of the bodice are of one color, with a shirred or pleated yoke and straps of the combination.

These sheer gowns have been responsible for the popularity of many long taffeta slips, particularly those with low backs.

Taffeta petticoats are also popular for spring in pastels. Fuchsia and chartreuse have been very good and are expected to be worn throughout the summer.

GALION LEGION POST OBSERVES 20TH BIRTHDAY

GALION—Celebrating the 20th anniversary of the American Legion, Scarbrough Post, and the American Legion Auxiliary joined Wednesday evening for a birthday party in the post rooms.

The program was announced by the post commander, Glen Gwinner. This included the opening song, "America," by the group; and the pledge of allegiance to the flag; readings by Jean Cowl; and a piano duet by Miriam Gwinner and Mrs. Charles Tracht. The closing feature was an act of magic presented by J. M. Poffenmyer of Ashland.

Card games and lunch followed the program. The social committee of the auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Edward Byrns, served the lunch.

There were nearly 100 present for the affair.

Spears, daughter of Mrs. Mary Wieczorek of 215 South street, to Clifford Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fleet Lemon of route 2, Lexington, took place Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the parsonage of the United Brethren church. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. O. E. Knepp. The attendants, Doris Willacker and Junior Lemon of Lexington, brother of the bridegroom, were the only witnesses.

Following the ceremony the couple and their attendants went to the home of the bride's mother for a wedding luncheon. Later the newlyweds went to their home on route 2, Lexington, where Mr. Lemon is engaged in farming.

UPHOLDS RIGHT

Appeals Court Rules Faber's Action Proper.

ASHLAND—The Fifth district court of appeals today had upheld the right of County Treasurer H. O. Faber to appeal to the court to have two bonding companies continue the $40,000 bond under which he serves as an official.

In overruling a dismissal motion by the companies, the court held that Faber is a party in the action to release his bondsmen and therefore could legally appeal from a common pleas court decision which freed the bonding company of responsibility.

The appeals court took the treasurer's appeal under advisement after hearing evidence in the case. There was no indication as to when a decision will be given.

Common pleas court ruled on the case after county commissioners turned down the bonding firm's application for release.

Faber is under grand jury indictments for embezzlement and destruction of public records. The charges were filed after state examiners' reports showed discrepancies of about $1,300 in his accounts.

EAGLES MEET

GALION—Visitors were present from Loudonville aerie at the meeting of Galion aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles Wednesday night. A short talk was given by A. Kiefer, conductor of the Loudonville lodge.

The membership committee announced plans for a drive for new members to be conducted from March 15 to April 30. The quota has been set for 33 new members, and at the close of the campaign there will be a banquet for all producers.

Ten dollars of the fine was suspended and he was given until April 1 to pay the balance. He paid costs. He was arrested by Game Warden John D. Farver on the E. M. Cox farm south of here.

Rites for Mrs. Rachel Kaylor to Be Held at Millersburg.

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services will be held at the Nashville M. E. church at 2:30 p. m. Thursday for Mrs. Rachel S. Kaylor, 84, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Haudenchild, near Loudonville, Tuesday. Rev. C. L. Yoder will officiate and burial will be in the Nashville cemetery.

Men Serve Meal, Ashland Mothers, Daughters Dine

ASHLAND—Two hundred and twenty-five women, including members and friends of the congregation of the Nankin Federated church attended the Mother-Daughter banquet held last night.

A carry over from the Father-Son banquet given a month ago, at which time the women of the church cooked the meal and served it, the affair last night was in the nature of a reciprocal treat, for this time the men cooked the dinner and served it.

Tickets had been sold for 200 guests, but evidently women of the community got word that the men were going to cook and by the time that the meal was ready to be served, there were more guests than there was enough food for, and the eating had to be done in two shifts.

The dinner, which was cooked under the direction of Russell Rudy and Wayne Perkins and the assistance of 25 members of the church was served in the chain letter fashion, a string of men lined from the kitchen to the consumers, and no time at all was lost from the time that the first course was served until it was time for the ice cream and cake.
